ABSTRACT

The structure and documentation of High School and Beyond First Follow-Up data files represent a departure from Base Year practices. The Base Year student file contains data from both the senior and sophomore cohorts. Due to the more complex design of the First Follow-Up and resulting increase in the volume of available data, separate First Follow-Up files have been created for the two cohorts. Each file is accompanied by a separate user's manual. However, to ensure that researchers are fully aware of the interrelationships among the many components of the study, this user's manual presents an overview of the entire study. Thus, a central objective of this manual is to provide a full understanding of all the goals and potential uses of the datasets that comprise High School and Beyond. The second major objective of this manual is to provide the user with the technical assistance needed to use the computer file, both as an independent dataset and as a component that may be merged with a growing system of related data bases. 1. INTRODUCTION

The structure and documentation of High School and Beyond First Follow-Up data files represent a departure from Base Year practices. The Base Year student file contains data from both the senior and sophomore cohorts. Due to the more complex design of the First Follow-Up and resulting increase in the volume of available data, separate First Follow-Up files have been created for the two cohorts. Each file is accompanied by a separate User's Manual. However, to ensure that researchers are fully aware of the interrelationships among the many components of the study, this User's Manual presents an overview of the entire study. Thus, a central objective of this manual is to provide a full understanding of all the goals and potential uses of the datasets that comprise High School and Beyond. The second major objective of this manual is to provide the user with the technical assistance needed to use the computer file, both as an independent dataset and as a component that may be merged with a growing system of related data bases.

1.1 Overview

1.1.1 NCES' Longitudinal Studies Program

The mandate of the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) includes the responsibility to "collect and disseminate statistics and other data related to education in the United States" and to "conduct and publish reports on specific analyses of the meaning and significance of such statistics" (Education Amendments of 1974 - Public Law 93-380, Title V, Section 501, amending Part A of the General Education Provisions Act).

Consistent with this mandate and in response to the need for policy-relevant, time-series data on a nationally representative sample of high school students, NCES instituted the National Longitudinal Studies (NLS) program, a continuing long-term project. The general aim of the NLS program is to study longitudinally the educational, vocational, and personal development of high school students and the personal, familial, social, institutional, and cultural factors that may affect that development.

The NLS program was planned to utilize time-series data bases in two ways: (1) each cohort is surveyed at regular intervals over a span of years, and (2) comparable data is obtained from successive cohorts, permitting studies of trends relevant to educational and career development and societal roles. The NLS program consists of two major studies: The National Longitudinal Study of the High School Class of 1972 (NLS-72) and High School and Beyond (HS&B).

The first, NLS-72, began with the collection of comprehensive Base Year data from over 22,000 high school seniors in the spring of 1972. Four Follow-Up surveys were conducted in the fall and winter of 1972, 1974, 1976, and 1979, using a combination of mail surveys and personal and telephone interviews.

The second, HS&B, was designed to inform federal and state policy in the decade of the 1980s. HS&B began in 1980 with the collection of Base Year data on high school seniors and sophomores. The First Follow-Up study was conducted in the spring of 1982, and the second is scheduled for the spring of 1984.

1.1.2 History of High School and Beyond

1.1.2.1 Relation to NLS-72

High School and Beyond was designed to build on the NLS-72 in three ways. First, the Base Year of HS&B included a 1980 cohort of high school seniors that was directly comparable to the 1972 cohort. Replication of selected 1972 student questionnaire items and test items makes it possible to analyze changes that have occurred since 1972 and their relationship to recent federal policies and programs in education. Second, the introduction of a sophomore cohort provides data on the many critical educational and vocational choices made between the sophomore and senior years in high school, permitting a fuller understanding of the secondary school experience and its impact on students. Finally, HS&B has expanded the NLS-72 focus by collecting data on a broader range of lifecycle factors, such as family-formation behavior, intellectual development, and social participation.

1.1.2.2 Brief Description of Base Year

The Base Year survey was conducted in the spring of 1980. The study design included a highly stratified national probability sample of over 1,100 secondary schools as the first stage units of selection. In the second stage, 36 seniors and 36 sophomores were selected per school (in schools with fewer than 36 in either of these groups, all eligible students were included). Special efforts were made to identify twins and triplets among selected students, and non-selected twins and triplets were invited to participate in the study. (Data from non-sampled twins and triplets is not included in the student data files, but may be obtained in a separate Twin Data File linking questionnaire data for both sampled and non-sampled twins for special analyses.) Over 30,000 sophomores and 28,000 seniors enrolled in 1,015 public and private high schools across the country participated in the Base Year survey. (Detailed information about the samples can be found in the HS&B Sample Design Report for the Base Year: Martin R. Frankel, Luane Kohnke, David Bucnanno, and Roger Tourangeau, Sample Design Report, NORC, 1981.)

Several special strata were included in the sample with probabilities higher than their occurrence in the population to allow for study of certain types of schools or students. These included:

- Hispanic strata, with probabilities of selection to insure sufficient numbers of Cuban, Puerto Rican and Mexican students for separate analyses
- a stratum of Catholic schools with high proportions of black students
- a stratum of public alternative schools .
- a stratum of private schools with high-achieving students

The Hispanic supplement to the sample was funded jointly by the Office of Bilingual Education and Minority Language Affairs (OBEMLA), and the Office for Civil Rights (OCR) within the Department of Education. An additional supplementary sample was drawn from students attending Department of Defense Dependent Schools (DoDDS) located overseas. DoDDS students are not included in the data tapes distributed by NCES, however.

Survey instruments in the Base Year included:

- a school questionnaire
- student identification pages
- a sophomore questionnaire
- a senior questionnaire
- a series of cognitive tests for each cohort
- teacher comment checklist
- parent questionnaires (mailed to a sample of parents from both cohorts)

The student questionnaires focused on individual and family background, high school experiences, work experiences, and plans for the future. Cognitive tests administered to students measured both verbal and quantitative abilities. In addition, sophomore tests included achievement measures in science, writing, and civics, while seniors were asked to respond to tests measuring abstract and nonverbal abilities. Of the 194 test items administered to the HS&B senior cohort in the Base Year, 86 percent were identical to those given to the NLS-72 Base Year respondents. School questionnaires provided information about enrollment, staff, educational programs, facilities and services, dropout rates, and special programs for handicapped and disadvantaged students. The teacher comment checklist provided teacher observations on students participating in the survey. The parent questionnaire elicited information about how family attitudes and financial planning affect postsecondary educational goals.

1.2 Overview of First Follow-Up Design

1.2.1 Sample Design

The First Follow-Up sample consists of approximately 30,000 1980 sophomores and 12,000 1980 seniors. It retains the multistage, stratified, and clustered design of the Base Year sample. All students selected during the Base Year (including nonrespondents) had a probability of inclusion in the First Follow-Up. Unequal probabilities were compensated by weighting. NORC attempted to survey all 1980 sophomores (including Base Year nonrespondents) who were still enrolled in their original Base Year schools. Certain categories of 1980 sophomores no longer enrolled in their original schools were subsampled (as described below) and certain categories were sampled with certainty. A subsample of 11,500 students was selected from among the senior cohort Base Year participants. This subsampling was carried out so as to insure the analytic power to address policy issues in areas such as excellence in education, access to postsecondary education, need for financial aid, and the impact of education on career choices. A special sample of 495 students was selected from among 1980 senior Base Year nonrespondents. The First Follow-Up sample also included all non-sampled co-twins (and triplets) who had been identified and surveyed during the Base Year survey, provided that the sampled twin was retained for the follow-up. However, non-sampled twins are not included in the probability sample and are not weighted. Their data appears only on a separate twin data file.

As in the Base Year, the Hispanic Supplement to the First Follow-Up was supported by OBEMLA and OCR. In addition, the United States Army Recruiting Command (USARC) supported the retention in the First Follow-Up sample of 200 additional 1980 seniors who had moderate to high achievement scores but no plans for postsecondary education.

NORC attempted to obtain a school questionnaire from all schools selected in the Base Year (including Base Year nonresponding schools), except from schools that had no 1980 sophomores, had closed, or had merged with other schools in the sample. In addition, schools that had received pools of students from Base Year schools were contacted to provide a school questionnaire. However, they were not included in the probability sample and were not weighted.

The First Follow-Up survey included a sample of students from the Department of Defense Dependents Schools (DoDDS). All DoDDS Base Year participants currently living overseas and all senior cohort Base Year participants living in the United States were included in the DoDDS follow-up sample. However, sophomore cohort Base Year participants living in the U.S. were not contacted for the First Follow-Up DoDDS survey.

1.2.2 Method of Administration

The survey design utilized two basic methods of data collection: group administration of questionnaires and tests to the sophomore cohort, and mailed questionnaires to the senior cohort.

The sophomore group administrations were conducted in either the sampled students' high school or an appropriate location off-campus. The location of the administration depended on the survey member's school enrollment status during the data collection period (February through May 1982). Group administrations were scheduled off-campus for sample members who were no longer attending the sampled schools. These individuals (e.g., transfer students, dropouts, early graduates) were contacted by NORC Survey Representatives and brought together in small groups of two to six participants. The same survey administration procedures were followed for both types of group administration.

Senior cohort members received mailed questionnaires and were not retested. Nonresponders were followed up by trained telephone interviewers. Approximately 75 percent of the seniors completed and returned questionnaires by mail, and an additional 20 percent of the senior questionnaires were completed by either in-person or telephone interviews (a method of administration variable is included on the file; see section 7.8). Survey design required that respondents interviewed over the telephone have a copy of the questionnaire in front of them, to keep their survey experience as comparable as possible to that of the majority of respondents, who filled out the questionnaires themselves.

2. DATA COLLECTION INSTRUMENTS

Information in the High School and Beyond data base comes primarily from questionnaires filled out by students, school administrators, teachers, and parents of students. These data are supplemented by a variety of other materials, including information on courses taught at sampled schools and the numbers of students enrolled in those courses, and information from students' high school transcripts. The survey instruments given to school officials, teachers, and parents, as well as the protocols and procedures governing the transmittal of information on course offerings and student transcripts, are described in the user's manuals for each of those data files. The features of the student questionnaires used for the first two waves of High School and Beyond are described below. Base Year and First Follow-Up senior cohort questionnaires are reproduced in Appendix A. Questionnaires and supplements used for the sophomore cohort are included in the data user's manual for the First Follow-Up sophomore cohort data file.

2.1 Student Questionnaires

The Base Year senior and sophomore questionnaires were very similar. Approximately three-fourths of the items in each version were common to both. Most of the questions in both versions focused on students' behavior and experiences in the secondary school setting. Also included were questions about employment outside the school, postsecondary educational and occupational aspirations, and personal and family background, and a small number of questions about personal attitudes and beliefs. The First Follow-Up survey included three major questionnaire versions and two smaller supplementary questionnaires. The 1980 senior cohort First Follow-Up Questionnaire, administered to all members of the elder cohort, differed from the sophomore questionnaire in that it emphasized postsecondary school and work experiences while the sophomore questionnaire focused more on high school experiences. The First Follow-Up survey questionnaire for 1980 sophomores, administered to all sophomores except those who left high school prior to graduation, replicates nearly all the items used in the Base Year questionnaire. Those students who left high school prior to graduation completed the "1980 Sophomore Cohort (Not Currently in High School) Questionnaire." A "Transfer Supplement" was completed by all 1980 sophomores attending a high school other than their sampled Base Year high school, and students who graduated early (before March, 1982) from their Base Year high school were asked to complete an "Early Graduate Supplement."

2.1.1 1980 Senior Cohort Questionnaire

Most of the First Follow-Up questions can be traced through the Base Year senior instrument or to the NLS-72 Fourth Follow-Up Questionnaire. Content areas in the senior questionnaire include education (amount and type of postsecondary schooling completed, data on schools attended, school financing, educational expectations and aspirations, and non-school-based postsecondary training), work (labor force participation, detailed job histories, aspirations, military service), financial status (dependency, income), marital status (spouse's occupation, education, dependents), and demographics (household composition, race, sex, ethnicity, etc.). Approximately 30 items in the instrument were identified as "critical or key" questions, for which data was to be retrieved from respondents if necessary. (Critical questions can be identified in the instruments by the small circle located under the question number.)

2.1.2 1980 Sophomore Cohort Questionnaire

The purpose of the follow-up sophomore questionnaire was to document secondary school experiences, especially shifts in attitudes and values since the Base Year, and to document work experiences and plans for postsecondary education. Almost all of the First Follow-Up questions had been asked in the Base Year--most were from the sophomore document, but many had appeared in the senior questionnaire only. Content areas included: education (high school program, courses taken, grades, standardized tests taken, attendance and disciplinary behavior, parental involvement, extracurricular and leisure activities, assessment of quality of school and teachers), postsecondary education (goals, expectations, plans, and financing), work/labor force participation (occupational goals, attitudes toward military service), demographics (parents' education, father's occupation, family composition, school age siblings, family income, marital status, race, ethnicity, sex, birthdate, physical handicaps), and values (attitudes toward life goals, feelings about self, etc.).

As with the senior questionnaire, approximately 30 items were identified as critical items in the sophomore questionnaire.

2.1.3 1980 Sophomore Cohort (Not Currently in High School) Questionnaire

This questionnaire was designed for persons who had dropped out of high school. It focused on the reasons for dropping out and its impact on students' educational and career development. About a dozen of the items were developed specially for the situation of leaving school before completion; the remainder of the questionnaire was made up of items used either in the regular 1980 sophomore cohort questionnaire or the 1980 senior cohort instrument. Content areas included: circumstances of leaving school (reasons for leaving, evaluation of decision, plans for obtaining high school diploma or equivalent), participation in training programs and other postsecondary education; work (labor force participation, detailed job history, aspirations, Armed Forces service); financial status (dependency, income); marital status (spouse's education, occupation, dependents); demographics (parents' education, father's occupation, race, sex, ethnicity, date of birth); and other personal characteristics (physical handicaps, values, feelings about self).

2.1.4 Transfer Supplement

This supplement was completed by members of the sophomore cohort who had transferred out of the Base Year sample high school to another high school. All of the items in the transfer supplement were new items (except a few that were taken from the school questionnaire). Content areas included: reasons for tranferring and for selecting a particular school; identification of school, location, grade respondent was in when transferred, entrance requirements, length of interruption in schooling (if any) and reason, type of school (general, specialized), size of student body, grades. The supplement was brief, taking about 10 minutes to complete.

2.1.5 Early Graduate Supplement

This supplement was developed for members of the sophomore cohort who graduated from high school ahead of schedule. Its intent was to document reasons for and circumstances of early graduation, the adjustments required to finish early, and respondents' activities compared with those of other out-of-school survey members (i.e., dropouts, 1980 seniors.) Content areas included: reasons for graduating early, when decision was made (what grade), persons involved in the decision, course adjustments required, school requirements, and postsecondary education and work experience (the questions for the last area were identical to those in the senior cohort instrument). This supplement took about 10 to 15 minutes to complete.

2.2 Cognitive Tests

The sophomore cohort was administered the same test in both the Base Year and the First Follow-Up; the senior cohort was not retested in the First Follow-Up. The content of these tests is briefly described below.

2.2.1 Sophomore Test

The sophomore test covered the following areas:

1. Vocabulary (21 items, 7 minutes). A brief test using synonym format.
2. Reading (20 items, 15 minutes). A test based on short passages (100-200 words) with several related questions concerning a variety of reading skills (analysis, interpretation) but focusing on straightforward comprehension.
3. Mathematics (38 items, 21 minutes). Quantitative comparisons in which the student indicates which of two quantities is greater, or asserts their equality or the lack of sufficient data to determine which quantity is greater.
4. Science (20 items, 10 minutes). A brief test of science knowledge and scientific reasoning ability.
5. Writing (17 items, 10 minutes). A test of writing ability and knowledge of basic grammar.
6. Civics Education (10 questions, 5 minutes). A test of students' knowledge of various principles of law, government, and social behavior.

2.2.2 Senior Test

The senior test consisted of the following:

1. Vocabulary (27 items, 9 minutes). A brief test using synonym format.
2. Reading (20 items, 15 minutes). A test based on short passages (100-200 words) with several related questions concerning a variety of reading skills (analysis, interpretation) but focusing on straightforward comprehension.

3. Mathematics (33 items, 19 minutes). Quantitative comparisons in which the student indicates which of two quantities is greater, or asserts their equality or the lack of sufficient data to determine which quantity is greater.

4. Picture Number (15 items, 5 minutes). A test of associative memory consisting of a series of drawings of familiar objects each paired with a number. The student, after studying the picture number pairs, is asked to recall the number associated with each object.

5. Mosaic Comparisons (89 items, 6 minutes). A test measuring perceptual speed and accuracy through items that require that small differences be detected between pairs of otherwise identical mosaics or tile-like patterns.

6. Visualization in Three Dimensions (16 items, 9 minutes). Students were asked to visualize the shape a flat piece of metal (represented by a line drawing) might assume if folded along a specified line, and select this three-dimensional shape from a group of possible answers.

7. Questions About the Test (5 minutes). Students were asked how they felt about taking the test, and how important they thought the various abilities it measured would be to them later in life.

3. SAMPLE DESIGN AND IMPLEMENTATION

3.1 Base Year Sample Design[1]

In the Base Year, students were selected through a two-stage, stratified probability sample with schools as the first stage units and students within schools as the second stage units. With the exception of certain special strata, which were oversampled, schools were selected with probability proportional to estimated enrollment in their 10th and 12th grades. Within each school, 36 seniors and 36 sophomores were randomly selected. In those schools with fewer than 36 seniors or 36 sophomores, all eligible students were drawn in the sample. Sampling rates for each stratum were set so as to select in each stratum the number of schools needed to satisfy study design criteria regarding minimum sample sizes for certain types of schools. As a result, some schools had a very high probability of inclusion in the sample (in some cases, equal to 1.0), while others had a very low probability of inclusion.

The total number of schools selected for the sample was 1,122, from a frame of 24,725 schools with grades 10 or 12 or both.[2] Sampling strata and the number of schools selected in each are shown in Table 3.1-1.

Substitution was carried out for schools that refused to participate in the survey, but there was no substitution for students who refused, whose parents refused, or who were absent on Survey Day and make-up days.[3]

[1] For further details on the Base Year sample design see Martin R. Frankel, Luane Kohnke, David Buonanno, and Roger Tourangeau, Sample Design Report, NORC, 1981.

[2] The sampling frame, defined as the universe of high schools in the United States, was obtained from the 1978 list of U.S. elementary and secondary schools of the Curriculum Information Center, a private firm. This was supplemented by the NCES lists of public and private elementary and secondary schools. Any school listed in any of these files that contained a 10th grade, a 12th grade, or both was made part of the frame.

[3] Apart from substitution for schools that refused, there were a number of schools in the originally-drawn sample that were "out-of-scope," failing to fit the criteria for inclusion in the sample. The sample was then augmented through selection of an additional school for each out-of-scope school, within major strata. Most of the out-of-scope schools were area vocational schools, having no enrollment of their own, although they were listed in the frame as having enrollments.

[a] These schools were defined as those having 30 percent or more of enrollment from the indicated subgroup.

Substitution for refusal schools was carried out only within strata. In certain cases no substitution was possible because a school was the sole member of its stratum. The realization of the sample by stratum is shown in Table 3.1-2. Although the sample design specified that students in all but the special strata would be selected with approximately equal probabilities, the probabilities are only roughly equal. In addition, the students in special strata were selected with higher probabilities, in some strata with extremely high probabilities. Moreover, the sample as realized also did not equal the sample as drawn, creating further deviations from a self-weighting sample. Consequently, weights were introduced for schools and for students, which give each school or each student a weight equal to the number of schools or students in the universe of schools or students represented by that school or student. Since each student's overall selection probability (hence weight) was further influenced by the sample design for the First Follow-Up, the derivation of student case weights is discussed below. Calculation of school weights is described in the user's manual for the school questionnaire data file.

Use of weights should lead to correct estimates (within sampling error) of the population of 10th and 12th grade students in United States schools in spring, 1980, and correct estimates of subgroups within it. If comparison with other data sources strongly indicates that certain population estimates are too high or too low, further adjustment of weights may be carried out in future versions of public use files. Preliminary comparisons have shown that the current weights give estimates reasonably close to those from other data sources.

3.2 First Follow-Up Sample Design

The First Follow-Up sample was based on the High School and Beyond Base Year sample, retaining the essential features of a multi-stage, stratified, and clustered design. The important features of the First Follow-Up design are as follows:

All schools selected for the Base Year sample were contacted for participation in the First Follow-Up school survey except those that had no 1980 sophomores, had closed, or had merged with other schools in the sample. Schools that received pools of students from Base Year schools were included in survey activities but were not added to the probability sample of schools. Of the 1,015 schools that participated in the Base Year survey, a total of 40 were dropped from the First Follow-Up sample: 11 because they had no sophomores in the Base Year, 5 because they had merged with other schools already in the sample, 17 because they were junior high schools or schools that were closed, sending all their 1980 students to a single "target school," and 7 because they had closed and sent their 1980 students to a large number of geographically dispersed schools. The 17 "target schools" that had received pools of Base Year students were included in survey activities but not added to the sample. Thus, 975 schools from the Base Year sample were contacted for the First Follow-Up survey. An additional 17 schools not in the probability sample were included in First Follow-Up survey activities.

Students (1980 sophomores) still enrolled in their original Base Year schools were retained with certainty, since re-surveying and re-testing them was relatively inexpensive due to the Base Year clustered design.

Sophomore cohort students no longer attending their original Base Year schools (e.g., dropouts, early graduates, and those who had transferred as individuals to a new school) were subsampled. Certain groups were retained with higher probabilities in order to support statistical research on such policy issues as excellence of education throughout the society, access to postsecondary education, and transition from school to the labor force.

A sample of 495 senior cohort Base Year nonparticipants was selected to provide information about possible bias due to Base Year nonparticipation.

Senior cohort cases that were subsampled were selected with probability proportional to Base Year weight, in order to reduce the overall variability of weights in the sample and thereby increase the statistical efficiency of the First Follow-Up 1980 senior sample.

3.3 First Follow-Up Selection Procedures

This section describes the procedures used to select the First Follow-Up sample. Sampling procedures for seniors and for sophomores were different. Sophomore procedures are described first, followed by senior procedures.

3.3.1 1980 Sophomore Cohort

3.3.1.1 Currently Enrolled Students

All 1980 sophomore cohort students selected for the Base Year sample were selected with certainty for the First Follow-Up if they were still enrolled in their Base Year schools at the time of the First Follow-Up Survey Day at the school. Students who transferred as a class to a different school were considered in-school if their original school had been a junior high school, had closed, or had merged with another school. Students who had graduated early or had transferred as individuals to other schools were treated as school leavers for purposes of sampling.

3.3.1.2 School Leavers

1980 sophomore cohort school leavers were selected with certainty or according to predesignated rates designed to produce approximately the number of completed cases needed for each of several different sample categories. School leavers who did not participate in the Base Year were given a selection probability of 0.1. Table 3.3-1 shows the number of currently enrolled students and school leavers in each major school stratum.

3.3.2 1980 Senior Cohort

All 1980 senior cohort students selected for the Base Year sample had a known, non-zero chance of selection for the First Follow-Up survey. The First Follow-Up sample consists of 11,995 selections from the Base Year sample. This total includes 11,500 selections from among the 28,240 Base Year participants and 495 selections from among the 6,741 Base Year non-participants. In addition 204 non-sampled co-twins or triplets (not part of the probability sample) were included in the First Follow-Up survey.

Several features of the senior cohort sampling design enhance its usefulness. First, the inclusion of 495 Base Year nonrespondents facilitates the estimation of nonresponse bias in Base Year data. Second, the selection of 1,500 additional Hispanic students beyond the number expected in the NCES core sample allows more complex, detailed analysis of Hispanic student outcomes. (This supplementary sample is supported by the Office for Bilingual Education and Minority Affairs and by the Office for Civil Rights.) Third, since the sampling plan called for retention in the First Follow-Up of less than one-half of the 1980 seniors who had participated in the Base Year survey, it was important to devise a subsampling plan that would retain in the follow-up sample sufficient numbers of students with the kinds of characteristics that past research had indicated would be required for certain kinds of policy analysis. This meant identifying these students and adjusting the subsampling rates so as to retain sufficient numbers of them. Thus, the First Follow-Up sample, though much smaller, is able to provide estimates for certain subclasses that are nearly as precise, statistically, as those of the larger Base Year sample. The sample allocation is shown in Table 3.3-2.

The sample of 495 students from the pool of Base Year nonrespondents was drawn in two stages. First, 404 schools were selected with probabilities based upon the number of nonrespondents and Base Year sampling weights. From the 404 selected schools, individual nonrespondents were selected by sequence number from the original Base Year sample rosters. A single selection was made in 318 schools; in 86 schools, two or more nonrespondents were selected.

(c) High achievement for Black and Hispanic students is defined as having a composite High School and Beyond test score above the weighted mean for the entire population.

(d) Among Whites, low SES is defined as the lowest quartile of the composite SES score distribution for the entire population. High Achievement is defined as a composite High School and Beyond test score in the highest quartile for the entire population.

(e) Cases in this row are Whites who are missing data on either the composite SES score or the composite High School and Beyond test score.

(f) Cases in this cell are students whose parents provided data and who reported in 1980 that their main activity after high school would involve postsecondary education.

(g) Cases in this cell include approximately 160 selections from the group of 875 "other Whites" with parent data who had no plans for postsecondary education and thus were not reselected with certainty.

3.4 Weighting of the Sample

3.4.1 General Approach to Weighting

The general purpose of the weighting scheme was to compensate for unequal probabilites of selection (retention) for the follow-up survey and to adjust for the fact that not all individuals selected for participation in the sample actually participated. The weights are based on the inverse of the probabilities of selection through all stages of the sample selection process and on nonresponse adjustment factors computed within weighting cells. A raw weight, unadjusted for nonresponse in the First Follow-Up, was also calculated and included on the data file.

The First Follow-Up data base includes questionnaire data and parent data for each cohort and follow-up test data for the sophomore cohort. Several different weights have been calculated for each cohort. These weights adjust for the fact that not all sample members have data for all instruments in both waves. Tables 3.4-1 and 3.4-2 show the nine weights calculated for the sophomore cohort and the six weights calculated for the senior cohort. All sophomore cohort weights when used with the sample cases for which they are appropriate project to the population of approximately 3,780,000 high school sophomores of 1980. The senior cohort weights project to the population of approximately 3,040,000 1980 high school seniors.

3.4.2 Procedures

The First Follow-Up weighting procedures, similar for both the senior and the sophomore cohorts, consisted of two basic steps:

Step 1. Calculation of a preliminary follow-up weight based on the inverse of the cumulative probability of selection for the Base Year and Follow-Up sample.

Step 2. Adjustment of this preliminary weight to compensate for "unit" nonresponse, that is, noncompletion of an entire questionnaire or test (except for the raw weight, RAWWT, which is unadjusted for nonresponse).

In the senior cohort, a third step was employed:

Step 3. Calculation of a second adjustment factor to reproportion the sum of adjusted weights between Base Year participants and nonparticipants.

These steps are described in more detail for each cohort below.

3.4.2.1 Sophomore Cohort

Step 1: Calculating a preliminary follow-up weight. The first step in weighting the sophomore cohort was to calculate a preliminary follow-up weight based on the inverse of the probability of selection (retention) for the follow-up. This was calculated as:

$$\text{follow-up preliminary weight} = W1hi \times (1/P2hij) \times (1/P3k)$$

where

W1hi = the Base Year stage one (school level) weight for the ith school in the hth superstratum (see Frankel, et al, 1981, p. 153)

P2hij = the Base Year stage two (student level) selection probability for the jth grade in the ith school of the hth superstratum (see Frankel, et al, 1981, p. 154).

P3k = probability of retention in the First Follow-Up for students in the kth sampling category

= 1.0 for certainty selections

= subsampling rate for noncertainty selections

W1hi, the Base Year stage one weight, had been calculated during the Base Year by first taking the inverse of the probability of selection of the school and then multiplying this by a factor that adjusted for ineligible and noncooperating schools. P2hij, the Base Year probability of selection for each student within his or her school and grade (given that the school had been selected), had been calculated during the Base Year as equal to the number of students selected in a grade within a school divided by the total number of students in that grade in the school. The value of P3k, the probability of selection in the First Follow-Up, given selection in the Base Year, depends on the specific sampling category in which a student was placed. These retention rates ranged from 1.0 for students retained with certainty to 0.1 for out-of-school Base Year nonparticipants.

Step 2: Nonresponse adjustment. In this step, the preliminary weight obtained in Step 1 was multiplied by a nonresponse ratio adjustment factor. For sophomores, these factors were calculated separately for cells defined by:

(1) Dropout status:
(1) non-dropout
(2) dropout

(2) School type:
(1) Regular public and alternative
(3) Hispanic public
(7) Catholic
(9) Private non-Catholic

(3) Sex:
(1) male
(2) female

(4) Race:
(1) Hispanic
(2) non-Hispanic Black
(3) non-Hispanic White and Other

(5) Base Year test quartile:

(0) no test data available		(0)	no test data available
(1) lowest quartile
(2) second quartile	or	(1)	below median
(3) third quartile		(2)	above median
(4) highest quartile

Within each cell two sums of preliminary weights were computed. The first was the sum of preliminary weights for all students in the cell selected for participation in the First Follow-Up (Selections). The second was the sum of preliminary weights for all students in the cell who actually completed the First Follow-Up questionnaire and/or test (Participants). The ratio of these two sums (Selections/Participants) provided a factor by which to multiply the preliminary weight of each participant to compensate for the missing weights of those who were selected but did not participate. The preliminary weights of First Follow-Up nonparticipants were multiplied by a nonresponse adjustment factor of 0 to produce a final follow-up weight of 0 for these cases. Thus, the nonresponse adjustment amounts to distributing the preliminary weights of the nonparticipants proportionately among the participants in their weighting cell.

3.4.2.2 Senior Cohort

The senior cohort of the First Follow-Up sample consists of two separately selected and weighted strata: a stratum of 11,500 Base Year participants, and a stratum of 495 Base Year nonparticipants. These two strata were separately weighted with inverse probability weights, and adjusted for nonresponse following procedures similar to those described above for the sophomore cohort. An additional step was then carried out for FUWT and RAWWT to combine these strata so as to properly represent Base Year participants and nonparticipants in the follow-up sample. (Since Base Year nonparticipants are not used with BYWT, PANELWT, BYPARWT, or FUPARWT, reproportioning was not necessary with these weights.) Thus, the Base Year nonparticipants who were selected for and participated in the First Follow-Up are allowed to "stand for" all Base Year nonparticipants in their school type. Similarly, Base Year participants are represented by the stratum of Base Year participants who participated in the First Follow-Up. This stratified weighting approach reduces the possible impact of any bias due to Base Year nonresponse. The weighting of the Base Year participant stratum is discussed first, followed by the Base Year nonparticipant stratum.

3.4.2.2.1 Base Year Participant Stratum

Step 1: Calculating a preliminary First Follow-Up weight. As the first step in weighting this stratum, a preliminary follow-up weight was established equal to the Base Year final weight times the inverse of the probability of retention in the First Follow-Up. For students retained with certainty, this preliminary weight is the same as their Base Year final weight. For all others, it reflects their effective rate of subsampling for the First Follow-Up.

Step 2: Nonresponse adjustment. In this step, the preliminary First Follow-Up weight obtained in Step 1 was multiplied by a nonresponse ratio adjustment factor. These factors were obtained separately for weighting cells based on the following variables: school type, sex, race/ethnicity, and Base Year test quartile. The classification variables were constructed as described for sophomores above. Weighting cells that contained only a few cases were collapsed with neighboring cells to avoid unacceptably large nonresponse adjustment factors.

Within each weighting cell a nonresponse adjustment factor was calculated as the ratio of the sum of preliminary weights for selections and the sum of preliminary weights for participants. This ratio constitutes the nonresponse adjustment factor for sample cases in this cell and is applied to the weight of each sample participant in the cell. Nonparticipant cases are multiplied by a nonresponse adjustment factor of 0 to produce a final weight of 0 for these cases.

3.4.2.2.2 Base Year Nonparticipant Stratum

Step 1: Calculating a preliminary First Follow-Up weight. For senior Base Year nonparticipants, the probability of retention in the First Follow-Up sample was made proportional to the Base Year weight of students in the school where the Base Year nonparticipant had been selected. As a result, for each of the 495 Base Year nonparticipants selected for the First Follow-Up sample, the probability of selection in the Base Year times the probability of selection in the follow-up equaled a constant (.0009536785). Using the inverse of this selection probability, a preliminary First Follow-Up weight of 1048.5714 was obtained for each senior Base Year nonparticipant selected for the follow-up sample. This weight was then adjusted for nonresponse as described below.

Step 2: Nonresponse adjustment. In this step, nonresponse adjustment factors were calculated from the sums of weights of selections and participants within weighting cells. Cells were based only on four categories of school type because of the small number of cases in this stratum (n = 495 selections).

Step 3: Reproportioning. Of the 11,995 senior cohort students selected for the First Follow-Up, 495 were Base Year nonparticipants. Of these 495, 412 participated in the First Follow-Up survey. Preliminary weighted analyses comparing the characteristics of these 412 respondents with the characteristics of the 10,815 Base Year participant follow-up respondents revealed substantial differences between these two sets of First Follow-Up participants. Therefore, it was decided to treat Base Year participants and Base Year nonparticipants as separate strata for purposes of weighting. To do this the sum of final weights was partitioned proportionately between Base Year participants and nonparticipants and each stratum was weighted separately. The partitioning was carried out separately for each of four school types (see Table 3.4-3). Within each school type separate targets for sums of final weights were established for Base Year participants and nonparticipants. These targets were calculated using the sum of final Base Year weights for each school type and the weighted proportion of students participating and not participating in each school type in the Base Year survey. In each of the eight cells, a ratio was formed using the target sum of weights as the numerator and the First Follow-Up sum of weights (adjusted for First Follow-Up nonresponse) as the denominator. In each cell these "reproportioning ratios" were multiplied times the adjusted follow-up weight to produce a final reproportioned weight. The sum of these weights then equalled the "target" sum in each cell. Thus, the Base Year nonparticipants who were selected for and participated in the First Follow-Up are allowed to "stand for" all Base Year nonparticipants in their school type. Similarly, Base Year participants are represented by the stratum of Base Year participants who participated in the First Follow-Up. This stratified weighting approach reduces the possible impact of any bias due to Base Year nonresponse.

3.4.2.3 Special Procedures for Parent Weights

In the case of BYPARWT and FUPARWT the preliminary follow-up weight was calculated using the Base Year final parent weight instead of the Base Year final student weight and a student's probability of retention in the First Follow-Up. The Base Year parent weight takes into account the subsampling of Base Year participants for the parent study and incorporates an adjustment for differential nonresponse to the parent survey. (See Base Year Parent Questionnaire Codebook, NORC, 1981, pp. 6-13, for details on the construction of the parent weight.) Because of the relatively small number of First Follow-Up cases with parent data (about 2,400 in the senior cohort and 3,000 in the sophomore cohort), adjustments to these weights for student nonresponse were limited to the calculation of ratios within the 27 super-strata, which served as the principal sampling strata in the design for the Base Year Parents Survey (see the Base Year Parent Questionnaire Codebook, pp. 3-6).

3.5 Results of Weighting

As a check on the adequacy of the sample case weights NORC analyzed first the statistical properties of the weights and second the effects of various weights on the composition of the First Follow-Up sample. The results of the first procedure are displayed in Tables 3.5-1 and 3.5-2. These tables show the mean, variance, standard deviation, coefficient of variation, minimum, maximum, skewness, and kurtosis for each of the weights calculated for each cohort. The results of the second procedure are reproduced in the First Follow-Up Sample Design Report.

3.6 Standard Errors and Design Effects

This section presents three sets of standard errors and design effects for the sophomore cohort only. (Sampling errors for the 1980 senior cohort are discussed in the User's Manual for the senior cohort data files.) Table 3.6-1 provides standard errors for 30 proportions and seven averages based on data from the First Follow-Up questionnaire and test. Table 3.6-2 provides standard errors for the same 30 proportions and seven averages, this time based on responses to the Base Year questionnaire and test; these statistics use data from members of the sophomore cohort who were selected for the First Follow-Up sample and who participated during the Base Year. Table 3.6-3 presents estimates of the change in each of the 37 statistics and the standard error of those change estimates. The change estimates were calculated using individual change scores from members of the sophmomore cohort who participated in both the Base Year and First Follow-Up; the standard errors for these estimates, thus, take into account the correlation between Base Year and First Follow-Up responses.

The estimates in Tables 3.6-1, 3.6-2, and 3.6-3 are weighted estimates. The procedures for calculating these weights are described in Section 3.4, above. The proportions in Table 3.6-1 use the Follow-Up weight (FUWT); those in Table 3.6-2 use the Base Year weight (BYWT); those in Table 3.6-3 use the Panel weight (PANELWT). The averages use the analogous weights developed for the test scores (FUTESTWT, BYTESTWT, and PNLTSTWT).

All of the standard errors in the tables were calculated using the method of Balanced Repeated Replication (BRR). BRR employs a very simple algorithm: it divides the sample repeatedly into half-samples and compares the estimates obtained from each of the half-samples with the estimate obtained from the entire sample. The differences between half-sample and entire sample estimates are used to estimate the standard error. BRR is described in more detail in the First Follow-Up Sample Design Report.

In addition to standard errors, all three tables give design effects for each estimate (DEFFs) and the square roots of each design effect (DEFTs). The design effect is a measure of the efficiency of the sample estimate relative to a simple random sample. It is defined as the ratio of the actual variance of an estimate (i.e., the square of the standard error given in the table) to the variance of the same estimate from a simple random sample with the same number of cases. For proportions, the simple random sample variance is just

p = the estimated proportion

n = the number of cases with non-missing data

Like almost all national samples, the High School and Beyond sample is not a simple random sample. The High School and Beyond sample departs from the model of simple random sampling in three major respects: the observations are clustered at the school level; major groups (such as students who attended private schools) are deliberately represented disproportionately; and the sample is stratified by type of school. Each of these departures from simple random sampling has a predictable effect on efficiency, an effect that is reflected in the design effect.

Table 3.6-1 shows that the mean design effect for the 37 statistics is 3.59. This is somewhat higher than the mean (2.88) observed during the Base Year Survey (see Frankel, et al, p. A-4). The sample of sophomores for the First Follow-Up differs from the Base Year sophomore sample in several key respects. Although the bulk of the Base Year sophomore sample was retained for the First Follow-up with certainty, a few groups were subsampled. The subsampling introduces additional variability into the Follow-Up weights; the added variability of the weights reduces the efficiency of the sample, which is reflected in the larger design effects. The largest contributors to this loss of efficiency were Base Year non-participants who dropped out of school prior to the First Follow-Up. This group--consisting of about 500 selected cases--was sampled at a rate of .10; the mean Follow-Up weight for this group is about 15 times larger than the mean weight for the rest of the sample.

Table 3.6-2 displays estimates for the Base Year sophomore sample using data from Base Year participants who were selected for the First Follow-Up sample. The questionnaire items in Table 3.6-2 are identical to those in Table 3.6-1 but the estimated proportions and standard errors are based on responses to these items in the Base Year sophomore questionnaire. For the most part, these items were repeated verbatim in the First Follow-Up questionnaire. In one case, response options were reordered in the Follow-Up questionnaire. Table 3.6-2 shows that the mean design effect is 2.90; this is very close to the figure (2.88) calculated during the Base Year. The mean design effect in Table 3.6-2 is lower than the mean in Table 3.6-1 (2.90 vs. 3.59); the estimates for the Follow-Up sophomore sample are relatively less efficient than estimates for the Base Year sophomores. This difference probably reflects the increased variability of the Follow-Up weights. Table 3.5-1 shows that the variance for BYWT is 10,066, while the variance for FUWT is 19,530. As noted above, the chief source of this increased variation in the Follow-Up weights was Base Year non-participants who dropped out of school; this group was subsampled in the First Follow-Up at a rate of .10.

Table 3.6-3 shows standard errors and design effects for 37 change statistics. The change statistics were computed by taking the weighted mean of the changes shown by each respondent who participated at both time points. The standard errors (and design effects) thus reflect the fact that whether a respondent was, for example, hard of hearing during the Base Year is correlated with his or her being hard of hearing during the First Follow-Up. The change estimates are directional: a negative estimate indicates that fewer respondents fell into the category of interest (e.g., hard of hearing) during the Follow-Up survey; a positive estimate indicates more respondents fell into the category. The mean design effect in Table 3.6-3 is lower than those for Tables 3.6-1 and 3.6-2 (1.95 vs. 3.59 and 2.90). This probably reflects the fact that complex estimates (such as change estimates) generally exhibit a smaller design effect than simple estimates.

The mean design effects given in Tables 3.6-1, 3.6-2, and 3.6-3 can be used to calculate approximate standard errors for other estimates not included in the tables. For example, the standard error of a proportion can be estimated using the square root of the expression in (1) times the mean root design effect (DEFT):

$$SE = DEFT \times (p(1-p)/n)^{1/2} \quad (2)$$

Similarly the standard error for a change in proportion can be calculated as the mean DEFT times the square root of the weighted variance of the change scores:

$$SE = DEFT \times (WTVAR/n)^{1/2} \quad (3)$$

in which

WTVAR = weighted variance of the individual change scores
n = unweighted number of valid observations
DEFT = mean of the root design effects for change estimates

The appropriate weight to use in calculating the variance for change estimates is the panel weight (PANELWT).

4. DATA COLLECTION

4.1 Overview

To date, High School and Beyond has compiled data from five primary sources: school administrators, teachers, students, students' administrative records (transcripts), and parents of selected students. In the Base Year (1980) survey, 1,015 secondary schools served as the primary sampling units for the study. The principal or headmaster of each school was asked to complete a school questionnaire and to provide materials essential for the sampling of students in the tenth and twelfth grades. Samples of approximately 36 students in each grade were asked to fill out a Student Identification Booklet (which included several items on the use of non-English languages as well as confidential identifying information) and a student questionnaire, and to take a timed cognitive (achievement) test. Teachers of selected students were asked to fill out brief Teacher Comment Forms containing 10 items on student traits and behavior. During the fall following the Base Year survey, data was collected from over 7,100 parents of student respondents (roughly half from each student cohort). This data focuses primarily on parents' ability to finance postsecondary education for their sons and daughters.

The First Follow-Up added a second wave of data from students in the spring of 1982. All 1980 sophomores (now seniors) who were still enrolled in their Base Year schools were asked to fill out a questionnaire and to retake the test that had been administered two years earlier. A stratified subsample of school leavers within the sophomore cohort (dropouts, transfers, and early graduates) was resurveyed and retested. School administrators were again asked to complete a school questionnaire and to provide information on the secondary level course offerings and enrollments for their institutions. In the fall of 1982, high school transcripts were requested for a probability sample of approximately 18,500 members of the 1980 sophomore cohort. As part of the First Follow-Up, questionnaire data was sought from a stratified sample of over 12,000 1980 seniors.

In this section the data and materials collected for the High School and Beyond Base Year and First Follow-Up surveys are described. These materials and activities are described in greater detail in the Technical Report for the First Follow-Up of High School and Beyond and in the Sample Design Report for the First Follow-Up of High School and Beyond.

4.2 Data and Materials Collected at the School Level

Three broad types of school level information have been compiled for High School and Beyond: school questionnaires, course offerings and enrollments, and Teacher Comment Forms. School personnel were also asked to provide such materials as student rosters (see the Base Year Sample Design Report), class schedules, and so on, which are not part of the public use data base and are not discussed here.

4.2.1 School Questionnaires

In both the Base Year and the First Follow-Up, principals and head masters (or their designates) were asked to complete questionnaires containing basic questions on such institutional characteristics as type of control, ownership, total enrollment, proportions of students and faculty belonging to policy-relevant groups, participation in Federal programs, per-pupil expenditures and so on. This information is stored primarily in a separate data file that may be easily merged with student data files or the course offerings file described below. In addition, approximately 19 of the most basic school characteristics have been stored on the student data file in order to facilitate the classification of students according to their school environment.

School questionnaires were sought from all 1,015 participating schools during the Base Year survey. In the First Follow-Up, school data was requested from those schools still in existence as independent institutions (i.e., that had not closed or merged with other schools), and that still had members of the 1980 sophomore cohort currently enrolled. Thus, no follow-up data was collected from schools that closed, merged with other schools, or had no tenth or twelfth grade during the Base Year survey. In a few instances when students from a Base Year school were transferred en masse to a different school, or when two schools within a district merged, school questionnaires were sought from the schools now attended by the sampled students. In such cases, data from the new schools is available to be merged with student records, but is maintained on separate school records in the HS&B school questionnaire file. (No new school data was sought for students who transferred as individuals.)

4.2.2 Teacher Comment Forms

Teacher Comment Forms were sought from all faculty members who had taught any HS&B sampled students during the 1979-80 academic year. This data was collected only during the Base Year survey. Teacher Comment Forms asked for perceptions about whether each selected student would probably go to college, was working up to potential, seemed popular with others, had talked with the teacher about school work or plans, seemed to dislike school, had enough self-discipline to hold a job, and had a physical or emotional handicap that affected school work. Data from these forms has been compiled into separate files with over 19,000 forms for each of the two student cohorts.

4.2.3 Course Offerings and Enrollments--Academic Year 1981-82

In the First Follow-Up only, school administrators were asked to provide materials that would allow the construction of a complete listing of all secondary level courses offered, complete with enrollment figures, for the 1981-82 academic year. This information was not requested in any prescribed format, but was accepted in a variety of forms. In many instances, schools were able to provide computer-generated printouts of Master Teaching Schedules. In others, it was necessary to merge information from several sources such as annotated course listings, catalogs, enrollment records. Procedures were established to maximize the completeness and accuracy of these materials (see below). In the data file constructed from these documents, each school is represented by a block of records that indicate for each course offered a 6-digit course identification number, the duration and timing of the course (i.e., year-long, first semester, third quarter, etc.), the credits earned for successful completion, and the total number of students enrolled in the course during the entire 1981-82 academic year. This data set may be merged easily with either the school questionnaire file, the student data files, or the student transcript file.

4.2.4 Data Collection Procedures--School Level Data

In both the Base Year and First Follow-Up surveys, it was first necessary to secure a commitment from the administrator of each sampled school to participate generally in the study. In the case of public schools, the process was begun by contacting the chief state school officer (usually the state Superintendent of Schools) to explain both the objectives of the study and the data collection procedures (especially those for protecting individual and institutional confidentiality), and to identify the specific districts and schools selected for the survey. Once approval was gained at the state level, contact was made with district superintendents and finally, once district approval was granted, with school principals. Similarly, wherever selected private schools were organized into an administrative hierarchy (e.g., Catholic school dioceses), approval was obtained at the superior level before the school principal or headmaster was approached. Within each cooperating school, principals were asked to designate a School Coordinator who would serve as a liaison between the NORC High School and Beyond staff and the school administrator and selected students. The School Coordinator (most often a senior guidance counselor) handled all requests for data and materials as well as all logistical arrangements for student-level data collection on the school premises.

In the Base Year, the School Coordinator assisted in assembling the materials for student sample selection. In the First Follow-Up the coordinator (usually the same individual) reviewed the school sample and assisted in determining students' current enrollment status, and in locating current addresses for selected sophomore cohort school leavers and senior cohort Base Year nonrespondents.

School questionnaires were sent to coordinators in the Fall of 1979 for the Base Year and in the Fall of 1981 for the First Follow-Up. Student survey sessions were conducted between February and June of 1980 and 1982. In most cases, school questionnaires were completed and returned to NORC before the spring survey sessions. Most of the remainder were collected by NORC Survey Representatives who visited participating schools to conduct student survey activities. During the First Follow-Up about one hundred additional school questionnaires were obtained in the fall of 1982, when schools were recontacted to supply student transcripts for a sample of 1980 sophomores.

This additional contact with the schools also offered an opportunity to retrieve missing data from critical items in the school questionnaires.

In the Base Year, coordinators were also asked to distribute some 67,000 Teacher Comment Forms to faculty members who might have taught HS&B sampled students during the 1979-80 academic year. Completed forms were returned to NORC in pre-addressed, prepaid envelopes by the teachers themselves.

During the First Follow-Up, coordinators were asked to assemble course offering and enrollment data to be given to Survey Representatives at the time of the student survey sessions. Although nearly 90 percent of the schools provided course offerings information during the spring of 1982, the majority were not able to provide enrollment figures until the fall of that year, when the schools were recontacted for student transcripts.

Finally, School Coordinators were notified during the First Follow-Up data collection period that they would be recontacted the following fall for their assistance in conducting the Student Transcript Survey. Each coordinator was sent a packet of materials including a list of selected students and a reimbursement voucher to cover the costs of reproducing up to 36 (or 72 in the case of merged schools) high school transcripts for 1980 sophomores. (If selected students had transferred individually to schools not in the HS&B sample, transcript requests were sent directly to the principal of the last school the student attended.) Initial transcript requests were followed several weeks later by a combination of letters and telephone calls offering further assistance (remailing of packets, etc.) to each nonresponding school. Follow-up activities continued through January of 1983.

Table 4.1 displays the completion rates for school questionnaires (both waves), course offering and enrollment data, and student transcript collection efforts. (Completion rates cannot be calculated for Teacher Comment Forms due to the absence of information on the total number of faculty members who had taught HS&B sampled students during the Base Year).

Response Rate	98%	98%	96%	73%	96%	87%

[1] Note: Of the 992 schools from which full participation was sought in the First Follow-Up, 975 were among the initial 1,015 that participated in the Base Year, and 17 were included because they received en bloc transfers of all students from Base Year HS&B schools. Of the 975 Base Year schools eligible for the First Follow-Up, school questionnaires were obtained from 956 or 98 percent.

[2] Transfer schools are defined as those to which 1,065 HS&B students had transferred as individuals.

[3] Of the 949 schools that responded, 4 were unable to furnish transcripts since the sampled students had received a GED only, not graduated, etc.

[4] Of the 771 schools that responded, 115 were unable to furnish transcripts since sampled students had never registered, transferred again, dropped out before earning credits, etc.

4.3 Student Data Collection

In the Base Year survey, a single data collection methodology--on-campus administration of questionnaires and tests to the entire sample of students from each selected school--was employed for both student cohorts. In the First Follow-Up, three distinct data collection plans were employed. First, members of the 1980 senior cohort were surveyed primarily by mail. Nonrespondents to the mail survey (approximately 25 percent of the elder cohort sample) were interviewed either in person or by telephone. Second, members of the 1980 sophomore cohort who were still enrolled in Base Year schools, or who had transferred as part of a class to another school in the same district (over 25,000 individuals), were resurveyed and retested using a modified version of the Base Year on-campus procedure. Third, school leavers (dropouts, transfers, and early graduates) among the 1980 sophomore cohort were first subsampled using a disproportionate design (see Chapter 3 above). These selected school leavers (approximately 4,600) were then invited to group sessions held at public facilities near their homes (usually libraries or other municipal buildings), where they were resurveyed and retested by NORC Survey Representatives under conditions as similar as possible to the on-campus sessions. School leavers who could not attend scheduled group administrations were contacted by NORC Survey Representatives and resurveyed individually.

4.3.1 Base Year Data Collection

Base Year student data was collected from students in 1,015 high schools between February 1 and May 15 of 1980. Sophomore and senior groups within each school were gathered in separate groups on scheduled survey days, and completed the questionnaires and tests in one session. A NORC Survey Representative (often assisted by the School Coordinator) was present with each group to explain survey procedures and to answer questions. An Orientation Day was held in each school, usually one to two weeks prior to Survey Day, in order to inform sampled students about the objectives of the study and to brief them on the requirements of participation, the voluntary nature of the study, and the procedures for protecting the confidentiality of their responses. Efforts were made during orientation sessions to identify all twins and triplets selected into the High School and Beyond sample and to recruit the participation of the non-selected twins and triplets in the study. Finally, a check was made during the orientation to see that parental permission forms had been obtained for all selected students in each school or district where this step was required.

The first step for students in each survey session was to complete a Student Identification Pages (SIP) booklet, which requested information about how the student might be located if selected for future follow-up. To preserve student confidentiality, these documents were handled, shipped, and stored separately from all other student instruments. The latter section of the SIP booklet contained several questions designed to identify students who had been exposed to non-English languages outside of formal school courses. Students having such exposure then answered a special series of questions about their use of and proficiency in the non-English language, as well as their bilingual education experiences. This data was processed into a separate file containing responses from over 11,300 students.

Students were then given one hour to complete the questionnaires. During this time, Survey Representatives scanned the completed SIP booklets for missing or incomplete responses. At the end of the allotted time questionnaires were collected. Students were given a ten-minute break, during which Survey Representatives reviewed the questionnaires for completeness. Further attempts were made to obtain any data missing from either the SIP booklets or the student questionnaires before students left the survey session.

The cognitive tests were administered following the completion of the questionnaires. Tests consisted of six timed segments. The Senior Test Booklet also included a series of items on student perceptions about the six sub-tests and how the student was feeling while taking the test.

When the testing was completed, students with incomplete SIP booklets or questionnaires were asked to remain so that missing data could be captured. For certain questionnaire items considered crucial to the analytical objectives of the study, students were given the option of marking a special oval in the question field indicating that they did not wish to answer.

Following the survey session, NORC Survey Representatives made arrangements with School Coordinators to conduct make-up sessions for students who were not able to attend the first Survey Day. Survey Representatives then packaged all completed student questionnaire and test booklets for shipment to NORC's optical scanning subcontractor for the conversion of student responses to machine-readable form. Student Identification Pages, parental permission forms (if any), and administrative documents were returned to NORC's central offices for processing and storage.

Table 4.2 displays separately for each student cohort the numbers and percentages who completed Base Year questionnaires and tests.

4.3.2 First Follow-Up Data Collection

4.3.2.1 1980 Senior Cohort

Questionnaire data was collected from members of the elder cohort between February and June of 1982. During the fall of 1981, packets were sent by mail to all sample members, containing a HS&B Newsletter that described selected Base Year survey results and plans for the 1982 follow-up, as well as a request to return a form confirming or updating name and address information provided in the Base Year. As a result of mail returns and follow-up efforts by NORC staff, current mailing addresses were compiled for all but approximately 200 members of the elder cohort First Follow-Up sample by the end of January 1981. These 200 were nearly all Base Year nonrespondents.

On February 12, a second packet was mailed to all members of the elder cohort for whom current addresses had been obtained. This packet contained a letter explaining the First Follow-Up study objectives and the general instructions for filling out the survey instrument; a 47-page 1980 senior cohort First Follow-Up Questionnaire (reproduced in Appendix A), a soft-lead pencil for marking responses in the form, a respondent fee check in the amount of five dollars, and an addressed, prepaid envelope for returning the completed questionnaire to NORC. Ten days after the initial mailing, a postcard was sent to all cohort members expressing thanks to those who had returned completed forms and repeating the request to those who had not yet responded.

Additional follow-up efforts were undertaken five weeks after the initial mailing. By this time, over 6,100 completed senior cohort questionnaires had been returned. The remaining 6,100 nonrespondents were assigned to 300 NORC Survey Representatives at HS&B sample locations who initiated follow-up telephone calls to encourage senior cohort members to complete their questionnaires and return them by mail. This early contact with sample members allowed NORC to diagnose a variety of problems such as lost materials, questionnaires not received, recent address changes, and so on, and to take corrective action appropriate to each specific situation. The first round of telephone prompt calls took approximately two weeks to complete. Four weeks after the telephone follow-ups were begun, the number of completed forms received had risen to approximately 7,300 (about 60 percent of the First Follow-Up elder cohort sample).

Second telephone reminder calls were initiated on April 14, 1982. During these calls, Survey Representatives attempted to assess whether or not sample members were likely to complete the questionnaire and to return it by mail. When it was considered unlikely, the Survey Representative attempted to complete the interview over the telephone. In all such instances, Survey Representatives attempted to ensure that telephone interview respondents had a copy of the questionnaire, allowing them to read all survey items and response categories for themselves. The Survey Representatives role was thus reduced to that of assisting the respondent to understand question wording and instructions, follow any routing directions (skip patterns), record the answers on his or her own copy of the questionnaire, and return the form to NORC offices. The second round of telephone reminders was completed by May 8, 1982 and resulted in the completion of an additional 1,000 questionnaires by mail and telephone, bringing the total to just under 8,300 responses (68 percent of the sample).

By the middle of May, the bulk of the on-campus data collection for the 1980 sophomore cohort had been completed, freeing Survey Representatives to follow up elder cohort members who could not be reached by telephone. Guided by the central office supervisory staff and by NORC's network of Regional and Associate Field Managers in 17 regions, HS&B Survey Representatives began extensive tracing efforts in order to reach all remaining nonrespondents and persuade them to return questionnaires by mail or else to participate in either telephone or in-person interviews. By the end of the field period, questionnaire data had been obtained from 11,227 senior cohort sample members (94 percent of the total), and from an additional 192 non-selected co-twins of sampled students (94 percent of the augmentation twins retained in the First Follow-Up). Table 4.3 displays the numbers and percentages of elder cohort sample members in each of six administrative disposition categories, broken down by major sampling strata for the First Follow-Up. Data for about 75 percent of the total sample (80 percent of the completed cases) was collected by means of self-administered questionnaires returned through the mail. About 8 percent of the total (9 percent of completions) were interviewed over the telephone, and approximately 11 percent were interviewed in person by Survey Representatives. (Data in senior cohort data file tape position 1227--SPSS variable name FEMETHOD--indicates the method of administration for each completed questionnaire.)

4.3.2.2 1980 Sophomore Cohort

Chapter 3 above describes the dual nature of the 1980 sophomore cohort First Follow-Up sample. During the fall of 1981, School Coordinators reviewed printed rosters of HS&B younger cohort members originally selected at their schools and indicated which of the students were still enrolled at the same schools and which had transferred to another school, graduated early, or left school without graduating. School Coordinators were also asked to supply current name and address information for all individuals in the latter three categories, and then return the rosters to NORC. Students listed on the rosters had been previously annotated with a sampling flag or marker reflecting predetermined selection probabilities for several student strata as described in Chapter 3. Individuals who were both flagged and identified by School Coordinators as dropouts, transfers, or early graduates were then confirmed as selections into the school leaver sample. School leavers who were not predesignated by sampling procedures were classified as ineligible for the First Follow-Up.

It is important to note that the First Follow-Up sample design specifications state that the eligibility of students for follow-up is defined by their enrollment status as of the scheduled Survey Day at their Base Year schools. It was therefore necessary for School Coordinators to repeat the review of the original student rosters on Survey Day. Any changes in student status from the time of the original roster review (e.g., students transferring or leaving school; dropouts returning to full-time school enrollment) were immediately implemented by Survey Representatives in accordance with sample design specifications. By the completion of the data collection period, 25,150 students had been classified as currently enrolled in Base Year schools (or designated receiving schools--see below), and 4,587 had been selected into the school leaver sample (1,290 transfers; 696 early graduates; 2,601 dropouts).

4.4 On-Campus Data Collection

On-campus data collection arrangements were sought for all younger cohort members who were still enrolled in the schools they attended during the Base Year, or who had transferred as part of a class to another school in the same district. (This latter group includes students who attended a junior high school during the Base Year, as well as those whose Base Year schools closed, were destroyed or merged with other schools not in the HS&B sample.) Survey Days were successfully arranged in 952 school buildings. A total of 40 schools declined to hold survey activities on-campus during regular school hours. In most of these instances, administrators of noncooperating schools assisted the survey effort by reviewing student rosters, identifying school leavers, and updating address information for younger cohort members. Many officials assisted NORC Survey Representatives in securing alternative sites for survey sessions and in encouraging sampled students to participate in off-campus administrations.

Survey Days were conducted between February 15 and June 11, 1982. Activities generally paralleled those used in the Base Year. Teams of NORC Survey Representatives, assisted by School Coordinators, administered student questionnaires and tests to groups averaging 20 students in size on the first scheduled Survey Day. Make-up sessions were scheduled for all schools in which the student-level response rate was less than 95 percent. About 60 percent of the make-up sessions were conducted by NORC Survey Representatives and 40 percent were administered by School Coordinators. By the end of the data collection period, 96 percent of the students eligible for on-campus survey administration had been resurveyed.

Two alternative data collection strategies were implemented for students enrolled in the 40 schools that had declined to allow on-campus sessions. Students enrolled in the 27 noncooperating schools located within 100 miles of at least one NORC Survey Representative were contacted by telephone, screened for current enrollment status, and, if not classified as a school leaver, invited to participate in a group survey session at a local public facility. (The screening process also allowed Survey Representatives to confirm the status of school leavers who had been predesignated for follow-up and to invite them to survey sessions as well; see below.) Over 95 percent of the 719 students currently enrolled at these 27 refusing schools were resurveyed in this manner.

There was a final group of 13 nonparticipating schools located over 100 miles from NORC Survey Representatives; it would have required unjustifiably large expenditures to administer the survey at these schools using similar methods. Students in these schools were screened by telephone for their current enrollment status and recruited to participate as appropriate. In these instances, however, eligible students were sent packets containing questionnaires, supplements, and other materials through the mail. A total of 340 students were found to be currently enrolled in these 13 schools; about 89 percent returned completed questionnaires to NORC offices. Cognitive test data was not collected from these younger cohort members.

4.5 Off-Campus Data Collection

Off-campus survey sessions were held for 1980 sophomore cohort school leavers between February 20 and June 25, 1982. Because it was necessary to reconfirm the enrollment status of each student as of the first scheduled Survey Day at students' Base Year schools, off-campus group administrations were always scheduled after Survey Days at the schools where selected transfers, early graduates and dropouts had formerly been enrolled. Once their enrollment and selection status was established, Survey Representatives contacted school leavers by telephone and invited them to take part in group sessions to be resurveyed and retested. All school leavers were offered monetary incentives for participation ($5 for filling out the follow-up questionnaire and $10 for taking the test), and were reimbursed (up to $10) for travel expenses to and from the survey sites.

Off-campus survey administrations were conducted using procedures as similar as possible to on-campus sessions. Survey Representatives scan-edited completed questionnaires during the testing period and attempted to retrieve missing or incomplete data before participants left the sites. Because the off-campus sessions typically involved only two to five school leavers, these administrations were handled by a single Survey Representative.

Although 85 percent of the participating school leavers were resurveyed in group administrations, a substantial minority were not able to attend scheduled sessions. Survey Representatives were able to personally interview and retest 465 of these individuals whose home addresses were close to areas where other survey activities were underway. In addition, 92 interviews were conducted over the telephone, and 60 completed questionnaires were returned by mail by school leavers whose residences were more than 50 miles from the closest Survey Representative. No First Follow-Up test data was obtained for the latter two groups.

Table 4.4 displays data collection results separately for dropouts, transfers, and early graduates.

4.6 Collection of Student Transcripts

During the fall of 1982, high school transcripts were collected for a sample of 1980 sophomores. Approximately 18,500 students were selected using a disproportionate allocation that balanced the need to maximize the numbers of selections from policy-relevant subgroups (e.g., dropouts, racial and ethnic minorities, twins) against the need for statistical efficiency in the computation of nationwide estimates from the data. Survey materials were sent to approximately 1,900 schools (including HS&B sample schools and schools to which 1980 sophomores had transferred) in the last week of September, 1982. Follow-up calls to School Coordinators and principals were initiated on November 4, 1982 and continued as necessary through January of 1983.

Transcripts were received and processed for approximately 16,200 students (88 percent of the sample). The response rate for HS&B sample schools (92 percent) was significantly higher than that obtained for schools to which HS&B students had transferred (83 percent). The most common reasons for failure to obtain transcripts were the absence of a signed form from a student authorizing school officials to release the transcript (affecting about 3 percent of the students), and district or school policy against releasing student transcripts for research purposes (affecting about 2 percent of students).

Student Transcript Data Files will contain records for each student listing for each secondary level course taken, a 6-digit course identification number, the school year and term that the course was taken, the credits earned and the final grade. Courses that are part of special curricula or programs (e.g., bilingual education, special education, programs for gifted students) will be so identified. In addition, for each student, the record will contain information on the student's rank in class, overall grade point average, numbers of days absent for each school year, number of suspensions, the date and reason the student left the school, and identifying codes and scores for any standardized tests taken by the student (SAT, PSAT, ACT, or advanced placement tests). This data file will be issued separately from the student questionnaire and test score data file but may be easily merged with the latter by means of the common student identification number.

5. DATA CONTROL AND PREPARATION

Data control and preparation refers to a series of procedures governing the preparation of completed questionnaires for optical scanning. The process involved monitoring the receipt of documents from the field staff and from individual respondents, editing the completed instruments for missing information, retrieving missing information for specified questions, and validating a predetermined percentage of the interviews conducted in person or by telephone. All of these procedures were completed prior to shipping the instruments to Westinghouse Information Services (WIS) for data conversion by optical scanning.

5.1 Base Year Procedures

The procedures for data control and preparation varied significantly between the Base Year and the First Follow-Up. Since the Base Year student instruments were less complex than the First Follow-Up student questionnaires (for example, they required no open-ended coding, etc.), the completed documents were sent by Survey Representatives directly from the schools to the scanning subcontractor. The scanning computer was programmed to perform the Critical Item Edit (described below) and to produce reports that identified the critical items with missing information for each case. The reports were sent to NORC, where data retrieval was completed. (The Base Year Teacher Comment Forms were also sent directly to WIS for optical scanning, but no data retrieval was conducted.)

The Base Year school questionnaires and parent questionnaires were converted into machine readable form by the conventional key to disk method at NORC. In the Base Year, most school questionnaires were completed and returned to NORC before the scheduled Survey Day at the school; the remainder were collected by Survey Representatives during their Survey Day visits. This sequence permitted retrieval of missing school questionnaire data for most institutions during the course of scheduled survey activities, obviating the need for additional contact with school officials.

5.2 First Follow-Up Procedures

5.2.1 Shipping and Receiving Documents

All documents shipped to NORC from the field (e.g., the sophomore questionnaires and tests completed on Survey Day in the schools), and all of the instruments shipped from NORC to WIS for optical scanning, were accompanied by a detailed transmittal form that listed each case in the shipping carton. Upon arrival at NORC, the contents of each carton were thoroughly inspected by the receipt control supervisor. Documents were assigned disposition codes which characterized the completion status for each case in terms of both respondent type and the presence or absence of relevant materials. Any discrepancies were resolved with the appropriate Survey Representatives or Field Managers within a 24-hour period. Data control disposition codes were then entered into the in-house processing segment of NORC's Automated Survey System (NASS), and routed to the appropriate processing station. Additional updates were made to the NASS record for each case as remaining procedures (editing and coding, data retrieval, interview validation) were completed. A final entry into the NASS record was made when the case was processed for shipment to Westinghouse Information Services for optical scanning. The transit of large shipments of edited instruments to WIS was safeguarded by the use of Brinks Incorporated, which provided portal-to-portal secure delivery.

5.2.2 Editing and Coding

A staff of 16 coders/editors handled over 40,000 student questionnaires and nearly 1,000 school questionnaires. Editors and coders were trained for one week, followed by a 100 percent review of the first 40 cases edited by each trainee. Those not performing satisfactorily were either terminated or retrained, depending upon the severity of the problem.

The first data preparation step for each completed document was the Critical Item Edit. (The large sample and lengthy data collection instruments of High School and Beyond make 100 percent editing of each questionnaire infeasible.) A list of approximately forty items in each of the major survey instruments were designated as "critical" or "key" items (see Appendix B). Items were so designated if they were deemed to be crucial to the methodological or analytical objectives of the study. Most of the key items are of self-evident policy relevance; others were chosen as a means of checking whether survey respondents had properly followed routing instructions, or whether they had inadvertently skipped portions of the questionnaires. Cases were deemed to have failed the Critical Item Edit if the respondent did not provide a codeable response to any key item. Thus, omissions, illegal multiple responses and vague, unclear responses were grounds for failure. In each document, items failing the edit were flagged and the document routed to the data retrieval station, where respondents were called by telephone to obtain missing information or otherwise resolve the edit failure.

In addition to the Critical Item Edit, other coding tasks included:

1) Occupational and industrial coding for each job held [1]

2) Coding the names of postsecondary schools attended [2]

3) Military coding of specialized schooling, specialty and pay grade [3]

4) Field-of-study coding for most recent major at each postsecondary school attended [4]

[1] The directories used included the U. S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census, Classified Index of Industries and Occupations, 1970, and U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census, Alphabetical Index of Industries and Occupations 1970. The 1970 edition was used so that the coding on High School and Beyond would coincide with that used on NLS-72. The codes can be found in Appendix C.1.

[2] Schools were coded using FICE six-digit codes. The directories included the NCES Directory of Post Secondary Schools with Occupational Programs, 1975-76, and the NCES Education Directory, Colleges and Universities, 1981-82. Codes were created for unique situations not listed in these directories. The FICE codes and the created codes are located in Appendix C.2.

[3] Department of Defense, Occupational Conversion Table, Enlisted 1974. A copy of this edition was obtained from Research Triangle Institute, so that High School and Beyond Military coding would be compatible with that used for NLS-72. The military codes are located in Appendix C.3.

[4] The field-of-study information was converted into six-digit codes using the HEGIS Taxonomy. The directories used included: HEW, NCES, A Taxonomy of Instructional Programs in Higher Education, 1970; and HEW, Vocational Education and Occupations, 1969. These directories were also used for field of study coding on NLS-72. The field-of-study codes are located in Appendix C.4.

5) Coding the new open-ended questions in the Early Graduate and Transfer Supplements [5]

6) Coding licenses, certificates and diplomas [6]

7) Entering all numerical responses into optical scanning grids [7]

In general, the survey instrument for the 1980 senior cohort contained many more open-ended questions than that used for the younger cohort. An exception is the instrument completed by 1980 sophomores who left school without graduating, which included many of the employment-related items from the senior cohort questionnaire. Thus, senior questionnaires took an average of 16.4 minutes to edit and code, while questionnaires from sophomores no longer attending their Base Year high schools averaged 19.4 minutes, and instruments from sophomores still attending their same Base Year school required an average of 10.9 minutes for editing and coding.

5.3 Data Retrieval and Validation

The proportion of cases requiring retrieval varied widely between the sophomore and senior cohorts due to differences in the method of administration. Senior instruments completed in an unsupervised setting had a 43.6 percent retrieval rate while sophomore instruments were notably below that at 16.5 percent. The lower retrieval rate among sophomores was achieved through the use of on-site edits performed by Survey Representatives on school Survey Days and at off-campus group administrations. Questionnaires with missing or incomplete information on critical items were handed back to the student for corrections. The students generally complied, time and circumstances permitting.

[5] These codes were created during the coding process. A complete list of the categories, by question and instrument type, is found in Appendix C.5.

[6] To insure compatibility, the various licenses, certificates and other diplomas received by respondents were coded according to two-digits created for NLS-72. These codes are located in Appendix C.5 of the senior cohort data file user's manual.

[7] The optical scanning equipment could only read information as darkened ovals. As a consequence, all numerical responses, such as birthdate, dates of employment, etc., had to be entered into numerical optical scanning grids for processing.

Interview validation is the process of recontacting selected respondents in order to repeat the collection of specified data. Data from validation calls (conducted from the central office) is then compared with data collected by Survey Representatives through personal or telephone interviews. Discrepancies in the two data sources are investigated, and if not resolved, the respondent is re-interviewed. Further validation is then conducted for an interviewer whenever validation failure occurs, and follow-up action taken as appropriate.

Since the process of validating an interview also requires a phone call to the respondent, cases requiring both validation and retrieval were handled in a single call to lessen impositions on the respondent's time. As noted earlier, approximately 10 percent of the instruments completed in person or by telephone were validated. No cases were found to fail validation checks in the First Follow-Up.

6. DATA PROCESSING

Data processing activities during the First Follow-Up spanned the entire length of the project, beginning with maintenance of the school name-and-address file (used for contacting schools during the prefield period) and concluding with machine editing and the preparation of public use data tapes. Data processing in the Base Year was less extensive since the sampling procedures, instruments, and the resulting data base were usually less complex. This section will focus on First Follow-Up activities while providing a brief description of data processing during the Base Year.

6.1 Base Year Data Processing

As discussed in earlier chapters, the Base Year student instruments were limited to two versions (one per cohort) and the instruments contained only one logical branch or skip sequence for respondents to follow. Because of this simplicity, it was efficient for the optical scanning contractor to perform the critical item edit and convert blank fields to missing value codes (see below and Chapter 7) at the time of completing the data conversion. The optical scanning contractor, Westinghouse Information Systems (WIS-then Westinghouse Learning Corporation) converted the blank response fields to missing value codes according to instructions from NORC.

WIS created separate data files for the two cohorts. Upon receipt of each file, NORC first conducted an audit of a sample of cases, comparing the scanned and machine edited data files with the actual hard-copy questionnaires, as a final check on the accuracy of the data conversion. Then, to facilitate merging the two files into a single dataset, NORC reformatted the tape so that identical questions in both versions occupied the same tape positions in each file. In general, the order of the data followed that of the senior questionnaire. Items unique to the sophomore instrument were interspersed among the senior items so that sophomore data remain approximately in the same order as in the questionnaire. Also, whenever necessary, the sophomore response category values were recoded to match those for the elder cohort. NORC also produced SPSS control cards and ran frequency distributions on the merged file for the purpose of checking for out-of-range values. Only a few out-of-range codes were found and those were assigned appropriate missing value codes.

As noted above, Base Year questionnaires were designed so that only one explicit "SKIP TO" instruction appears in the senior questionnaire (seniors not going on to college do not complete the last section of their instruments on college education), and none in the sophomore questionnaire. In the case of two or more related questions, the items following an implicit screening or filter question contain response options appropriate for those "screened out" by the filter question. In the Base Year, no inter-item consistency checks were carried out between the implicit filter questions and the related (dependent) items.

A final task was the computation of the composite variables. The Base Year composite variables were constructed to be compatible with those contained on the public use file for the National Longitudinal Survey of the High School class of 1972 (NLS-72). These composite variables are part of the First Follow-Up public use tape and are discussed later in this chapter.

6.2 First Follow-Up Data Processing

In addition to maintaining an up-to-date school name-and-address file, data processing staff produced computer-generated rosters for each school, listing all of the 1980 sophomore cohort participants and any of the 495 Base Year participants selected at that school (if any). Schools were asked to update the rosters with respect to a student's current status (e.g., still enrolled, transfer, dropout, or early graduate) and current address information if the student was no longer attending that school.

Completed rosters went through a process of editing, data retrieval, and data entry. The updated information provided a basis for the computer-generated Survey Representative Assignment Logs and face sheets for locating sophomore school leavers prior to Survey Day. The updated information also provided current mailing addresses for the elder cohort.

6.3 Receipt Control Procedures

Using the NORC Automated Survey System (NASS), separate NASS files were produced for tracking school level events as well as sophomore and senior cohort survey activities. From the school NASS file, weekly summary reports were generated that tracked refusal rates and patterns, completed survey days or delays, and the receipt of school level documents (i.e., school questionnaires). NASS also generated customized calendars of scheduled school survey days for each NORC Survey Representative.

Weekly summary reports were produced on the receipt of sophomore and senior questionnaires, and data control disposition codes were added to the NASS files, making it possible to track the internal movement of instruments through mail receipt, editing, data retrieval, validation, and shipment for optical scanning at WIS. As noted in Chapter 5, the NASS also generated the transmittal for shipping the prepared instruments to WIS.

At the end of the data collection period a reconciliation between the three files provided an accurate count on the number of survey participants and documents received. The reconciliation used three types of checks: check digits derived from a fixed mathematical formula that easily identified misread or miscopied student ID numbers, a comparison of respondents' birthdates and sex against Base Year data, and a comparison of field transmittal forms against what the NASS records indicated had been returned from the field. All discrepancies were reported for review and resolution.

6.4 Data Entry of School Questionnaires

Because of the comparatively small number of school questionnaires to be processed, automated scanning procedures for this questionnaire would not have been cost-effective. For these reasons, the school questionnaire was converted to machine-readable form using NORC's DATA-100 key-to-disk data-entry system. This system incorporates a program that checks data as it is entered and facilitiates the correction of any keystroke errors.

Data fields of critical importance were verified (independently re-keyed) on 100 percent of the documents. Ten percent of the documents were fully verified as a check for systematic errors. A recent test of NORC's keying error rate has shown it to be approximately one half of one percent, and those errors were rectified in the course of computer editing.

6.5 Testing the Optical Scanning Program

As discussed in earlier sections, the student questionnaires were optically scanned using equipment that read darkened ovals or marks on the page. NORC conducted extensive tests and checks of the machine's ability to correctly read the darkened ovals. An early test of 131 documents revealed an adjustment to the mark sense threshold was necessary. A second test of 90 documents was conducted and a thorough audit of the results verified that satisfactory data conversion was being achieved.

6.6 Machine Editing

The NORC cleaning program (EDIT) was used for machine editing the school questionnaires. The program incorporated both simple checks for valid codes in every data field and logical checks for inter-item relationships. The final product was an EDIT report that listed every case that failed the machine edit and the source of the failure. Data preparation personnel, working from these reports, retrieved the documents in question and resolved the problems.

This approach to data cleaning insured that data was not distorted or falsified in the editing process. Genuine inconsistencies were resolved by calling back respondents or instructing the EDIT program to accept the inconsistency. The decision in each instance was based on considerations of data quality, economy, and the prospects of retrieving the correct information.

With respect to the student questionnaires, a case-by-case inspection of inconsistencies and stray codes was impractical due to the sheer number of cases and the fact that the pages of the questionnaires had been cut apart as preparation for data entry by optical scanning. Consequently, programs were written to automatically perform the necessary machine editing. The tasks performed included: resolution of inconsistencies between filter and dependent questions, supplying the appropriate missing-data code for questions left blank, detecting illegal codes and converting them to missing data codes, and generating a report on the quality of the data as measured by the incidence of correctly and incorrectly answered fields and correctly or incorrectly skipped fields.

Inconsistencies between filter and dependent questions were resolved in consultation with NCES staff. In most instances, dependent questions that conflicted with the skip instructions of a filter question contained data that, although possibly valid, were not responsive to the intent of the dependent question. Data retrieval verified that filter questions were typically answered correctly, and the dependent questions which should have been skipped were often answered simply because they seemed to apply. The manual editing procedures left such inappropriate responses to be expunged during the machine edit.

After improperly answered questions were converted to blanks, the student data was passed to a program which supplied the appropriate missing-data codes for blank questions. The program converted questions left blank according to several criteria. If a previous question had been answered in a way that required that the current question be skipped, a "legitimate skip" code was supplied. If not, a "missing-data" code was supplied, except in the case of critical questions. Critical questions with missing data were flagged during data preparation, and attempts were made to obtain the information by telephone. If the respondent specifically refused to answer a question during the call-back, a scannable oval was marked. Critical questions marked in this way were assigned a special code of "refused." Otherwise, critical questions were treated in the same manner as others. Finally, additional missing-data codes for multiple-coded questions were supplied by the scanner.

Detection of out-of-range codes was completed during scanning for all questions except those permitting an open-ended response. For the hand-coded, open-ended questions (such as the 3-digit occupation and industry codes, or the 6-digit college and field-of-study codes), the data was compared to the list of valid codes, and invalid codes were converted to the "no answer" value. The numbers of invalid codes detected were negligible.

For measuring data quality, the machine-edit programs produced bar graphs that displayed the frequencies for the different situations recognized by the programs: questions properly answered, questions properly skipped (the "legitimate skip" code), questions skipped in error (the "no answer" code), and questions answered in error.

The treatment of inappropriately answered items (i.e., those a respondent was instructed to skip) relied on the results of the critical item editing procedure. With only one or two exceptions, screening or filter questions were designated as critical items. When respondents were inconsistent in answering these items, either by responding to items they were instructed to skip, or by failing to answer dependent questions related to the filter item, the case was classified as an edit failure. Telephone calls were used to obtain responses to items skipped in error. In addition, the results of these calls demonstrated unambiguously that inappropriate answers to filter-dependent items were universally caused by respondents' failure to comply properly with the routing instructions of the filter questions. Rather than skipping to the designated target question to resume their responses, these individuals attempted to answer each filter-dependent question that appeared to offer a reasonably suitable response category. On the strength of these findings, all filter-dependent responses entered in error were converted to the proper missing data values (i.e., the "legitimate skip" code).

6.7 Data File Preparation

The Base Year file combined data from both student cohorts into a single data set. For the First Follow-Up separate files were produced for each cohort. The sophomore student data file has a relatively complex layout. The initial section has a randomized ID number, various data flags and composite variables, and several weights needed to use the file; followed by the Base Year data record (if present), formatted exactly as in the Base Year public use student file; followed by the First Follow-Up sophomore data (if present). No student has data for all of the documents used for the younger cohort; only the initial section contains data for all cases in the file. Documents that were not obtained because they were inappropriate for a student's status (e.g., basic sophomore questionnaire for dropouts; dropout questionnaire and transfer supplement for early graduates) are represented in the file by the "legitimate skip" code for all variables (9, 99, 999, etc.). In the few cases when early graduates or transfer students failed to fill out the appropriate supplement, but did complete a basic sophomore questionnaire, the missing supplements are represented by the "no answer" code for all variables (8, 98, 998, etc.).

The file contains a record for every Base Year sophomore who was in-scope for the First Follow-Up: that is, everyone who is still in school, plus school leavers who were selected for follow-up. All in-scope students are included in the file, whether they participated in High School and Beyond or not.

The senior cohort file layout is considerably simpler than the sophomore layout. There is only one follow-up document for seniors. The record thus contains a (randomized) ID number, flags, and weights, the Base Year public-use data record, and the follow-up questionnaire record.

6.8 Construction of Composite Variables

The composite variables and indices created for the First Follow-Up data files are described below. The mnemonic for each composite or index (in parentheses) is the SPSS variable name found in the control card files accompanying the data files (see Chapter 7).

SEX. Students' sex was available in three survey documents: the Base Year questionnaire, the Base Year student ID Pages, and the Follow-Up questionnaire. If one or more of these sources contained a valid sex code (and none of the sources contained a conflicting sex code) that code was taken for the composite sex variable (SEX).

In 857 cases either no valid sex code or contradictory sex codes were found. When the information was missing, the value of the composite sex variable was assigned by inspection of the students' first names. In the small number of cases with inconsistent codes, a thorough review of the documentation for the case was carried out until the conflict was resolved.

RACE. Race and ethnic origin codes were available from both Base Year and First Follow-Up questionnaires. Composite race-ethnicity codes (RACE) were assigned according to a hierarchical sequence as follows: (1) if a Hispanic ethnic origin (codes 01-04) was indicated either year, the student was coded as Hispanic; otherwise (2) if an American-Indian race code (code 3) was present either year, the student was coded as American-Indian; otherwise (3) if an Asian race code (code 4) was present either year, the student was coded as Asian; otherwise (4) if a race code of "Black," (code 1) was present either year, the student was coded as Black; otherwise (5) if a race code of "White" (code 2) was present either year, the student was coded as White.

All remaining students (685 in both cohorts combined) were assigned to the residual category, "Other." This category therefore includes students whose race was coded as "Other" or was missing in both questionnaires and who did not give a Hispanic ethnic origin either year.

6.9 Test Composites and Quartiles

6.9.1 1980 Sophomore Cohort

The Base Year test composite (BYTEST) is an average of the reading, vocabulary, and math (Part 1) standardized scores (YBREADSD, YBVOCBSD, YBMTH1SD); or of as many of them as are non-missing. If all three are missing, the composite score is missing. Quartiles cut the population (weighted by BYTESTWT) into four equal categories. The cutting points are 42.53, 49.07, and 56.28.

The follow-up test composite (FUTEST) is calculated in exactly the same way, using FYREADSD, FYVOCBSD, and FYMTH1SD, or as many as are non-missing. The quartiles (weighted by FUTESTWT) divided the population into quarters at 42.50, 49.59, and 56.91.

6.9.2 1980 Senior Cohort

The Base Year test composite (BYTEST) for seniors was slightly more complicated because there were two vocabulary tests for seniors. Where both were present, they were combined into a single vocabulary score, weighted by the number of items in each. EBVOC1SD had 15 items, and EBVOC2SD had 12, so the combined vocabulary score was (15 x EBVOC1SD + 12 x EBVOC2SD)/27. This procedure had the effect of scoring the two tests as one long test. If only one vocabulary score was non-missing, it was taken for the combined vocabulary score. This procedure tends to equalize the weight allocated to the three tests in the computation of the senior cohort test composite.

With this done, the composite test score was computed, as for sophomores, as an average of the non-missing scores among EBREADSD, EBMTH1SD, and the combined vocabulary score. The file was weighted by BYWT to determine the quartile points of 43.28, 49.86, and 56.44.

The elder cohort was not retested in the First Follow-Up.

6.10 SES Composite and Quartiles

BYSES, a socioeconomic status composite, was copied from the Base Year public-use file for both cohorts. In addition, a new composite SES score for the First Follow-Up was constructed from the First Follow-Up questionnaire for the sophomore cohort. However, the senior follow-up questionnaire did not include enough items to construct an analogous follow-up SES composite for seniors. Sophomores who did not complete an in-school questionnaire (i.e., dropouts, and nonparticipants) are likewise missing follow-up SES.

The Base Year quartile ranks for the socioeconomic composite were not copied from the Base Year. Rather, for both BYSES and FUSES new quartile ranks were calculated that did not assume a normally distributed population of SES scores. All of the following calculations, except the quartiles, were done (insofar as possible) exactly as in the NLS-72 data files, to maintain compatibility.

The SES composite has five components (described below). For each case, the composite score is an average of all the non-missing components. If one component only, or none, is non-missing, the SES composite is assigned a missing value.

The first component is father's occupation, recoded into the Duncan SEI scale by assigning mean SEI scores to the categories of the High School and Beyond occupation question. The source variable is FY53A. The recode, taken from the NLS-72, assigns SEI scores thus:

02 = 56.58   03 = 27.41   04 = 28.00   05 = missing   06 = 7.33
07 = 67.73   08 = missing   09 = 19.18   10 = 70.21   11 = 70.21
12 = 49.70   13 = 38.00   14 = 54.42   15 = 70.21   16 = 15.90
17 = 16.40   18, 19 = missing

The second and third components are father's and mother's education, recoded as in the NLS-72. The variables are, respectively, FY55 and FY56 in the in-school questionnaire. These are recoded 02 = 1; 03 = 2; 04, 05, 06, 07 = 3; 08 = 4; 09, 10 = 5; 11 = missing.

The fourth component is family income, recoded to be linear in dollars, as in the NLS-72. Thus category midpoints are assigned to the codes of FY111, in thousands of dollars. (The top category, $50,000 or more, was given a "midpoint" of $60,000.)

The final component is a scale of eight household-possession items, FY113B to FY113I. Each of these is standardized; then as many of them as are non-missing are averaged to provide this last component.

Each of the five components is standardized separately, and then the non-missing components are averaged to form the raw SES score. The quartile score is formed by dividing the raw score at -.54, -.07, and +.49, so that the distribution (weighted by BYWT or FUWT, as appropriate) will be evenly distributed among the four codes.

Note that in the Base Year public-use file, the middle two codes of the SES "quartile" were combined; and the quartile cutting points were determined not from the data but (as in the NLS-72) from the assumption of a normal distribution. For the follow-up release file, we have therefore recalculated the Base Year SES quartiles for both sophomores and seniors, to provide four categories with equal (weighted) frequencies.

6.11 Psychological Scales

For both seniors and sophomores we provide the same five psychological scales as in the Base Year. These scales, and their components, are:

Self-concept:	FY75A, C, D, H	(sophomore in-school)
	FD77A, C, D, H	(sophomore dropout)
	FE75A, C, D, H	(senior)
Locus-of-control:	FY75B, E, F, G	(sophomore in-school)
	FD77B, E, F, G	(sophomore dropout)
	FE75B, E, F, G	(senior)
Work orientation:	FY73A, C, E	(sophomore in-school)
	FD82A, C, E	(sophomore dropout)
	FE85A, C, E	(senior)
Family orientation:	FY73B, H, I	(sophomore in-school)
	FD82B, H, I	(sophomore dropout)
	FE85B, H, I	(senior)

(Note that component 'I' is given negative weight.)

Community orientation:	FY73F, G, J	(sophomore in-school)
	FD82F, G, J	(sophomore dropout)
	FE85F, G, J	(senior)

For all of these composites, each component is standardized separately (using the appropriate weight), and the non-missing components are averaged. Students missing all the components of any scale are assigned the missing value (8) for that scale.

7. ORGANIZATION AND CONTENT OF THE DATA FILES

The First Follow-Up sophomore cohort data tape consists of four related data files. These files are:

1) The student data file, including the data availability flags, weights, questionnaire data, and composite variables
2) SAS control cards for defining a SAS system file
3) SPSS control cards for creating 7 separate SPSS system files:
    a. data availability flag file
    b. Base Year student data file
    c. First Follow-Up in-school questionnaire data file
    d. First Follow-Up not-currently-in-school questionnaire data file
    e. First Follow-Up transfer supplement data file
    f. First Follow-Up early graduate supplement data file
    g. First Follow-Up test scores and selected Base Year and First Follow-Up school questionnaire data file
4) The text file for the User's Manual, together with the print file of the frequency distributions

The senior cohort data tape contains analogous files. Technical specifications on the tape density, record length, etc., are provided separately with each tape.

The student data files consist of 11,995 records for the senior cohort, and 29,737 records for the sophomore cohort. Each record is organized as shown in the Record Layout that appears as Appendix E. The variables on the record are grouped into logical sets, discussed below. For the sake of brevity, we refer to each item of data by its SPSS (SAS) variable name as defined in the SPSS (SAS) control cards provided with the data file.

7.1. Identification Codes

The first variable on the file, ID, is a unique but randomized 6-digit student identification code. The second variable, SCHLID, is a unique but randomized school identification code composed of the first four digits of the student I.D. SCHLID allows a user to link students with the school in which they were sampled during the Base Year survey.

The sophomore data file contains an additional identification code, FSCHID, which identifies the school most recently attended. For students still attending their Base Year schools, FSCHID = SCHID. If the student changed schools, however, and if the new school was part of the original probability sample of schools or has been included in follow-up survey activities, then FSCHID = the new school ID. (Schools were included in follow-up survey activities only when they received entire blocks of students from original sample schools.)

7.2. Participation and Status Codes

BYPART and FU1PART indicate whether the student was a participant (code=1) or nonparticipant (code=0) during the Base Year survey and the First Follow-Up survey, respectively. These variables also indicate whether Base Year and First Follow-Up questionnaire data, respectively, are available for a student. These variables should be used in running weighted analyses to select the subset of students who have Base Year data for use with BYWT and the subset of students with First Follow-Up data for use with FUWT. When using PANELWT, users should use both flags jointly to select the subset of students who participated in both waves of the survey.

For example, to compute a weighted estimate of the proportion of sophomore students in the Base Year who expected to graduate from high school (Question 3), one would take the following steps: (1) use the Base Year participation flag, BYPART, to select the 27,118 cases that participated in the Base Year (code=1), (2) next invoke the appropriate weight, BYWT, and then (3) run frequencies for the variable YB003. Similarly, to compute a weighted estimate using data from the First Follow-Up questionnaire one would: (1) use the Follow-Up participation flag, FU1PART, to select the 28,119 cases that participated in the First Follow-Up (code=1), (2) next invoke the appropriate weight, FUWT, and then (3) compute the estimate for the desired variable.

It is important that the researcher utilize the participation flag to select only those cases that have data for the analysis that is to be undertaken. If this is done, then both weighted and unweighted analyses will be performed correctly by most computer packages. If cases are not first selected using the participation flag, however, some packaged programs may include in the analysis cases with no data, thus giving erroneous bases for frequencies, cross-tabulations, variances, and so forth. The safe (and recommended) thing to do is to always select cases first using the appropriate participation flag, then do the analysis.

If an analysis is to involve data from both rounds of the survey (Base Year and First Follow-Up), the user will need to select cases using both the BYPART and FU1PART together. (In SPSS: SELECT IF (BYPART EQ 1 and FU1PART EQ 1).) Only the 25,875 cases coded "1" on both flags will enter into the analysis. Only after this selection has been carried out is it appropriate to use the panel weight, PANELWT.

It is particularly important to select cases using the student participation flag (either BYPART or FU1PART) in analyses that utilize both student questionnaire data and school questionnaire data. Otherwise, students who did not participate in the survey may be included in the analysis simply because there is school data on their records. Failure to select cases using the flag that is appropriate to the weight being used may produce misleading results. In summary, the principle to bear in mind when using these data is that every weight has a corresponding flag or combination of flags that should be used to select cases for use with that weight.

The variable FUSTATUS provides information about reasons for nonparticipation in the First Follow-Up. FUSTTYPE is a First Follow-Up student type indicator that distinguishes among currently enrolled students (code = 1), dropouts (code = 2), transfers (code = 3), and early graduates (code = 4) in the sophomore cohort data file. This data item takes the constant value "6" for all students on the senior data file.

7.3 Data Availability Flags

SRQFLAG, PARFLAG, and BYSCHDATA indicate whether First Follow-Up senior questionnaire data, Base Year parent questionnaire data, and Base Year school questionnaire data, respectively, are available (code = 1) or not (code = 0) for a particular student. TWINFLAG indicates whether the respondent was identified as a twin or triplet.

SOQFLAG, DOQFLAG, TRQFLAG, and EGQFLAG indicate, for each student in the sophomore cohort, whether data is available for the regular (currently enrolled) sophomore questionnaire, the dropout questionnaire, the transfer student supplement and the early graduate supplement, respectively. TRFLAG indicates whether the student was selected into the sample for the transcripts study.

7.4 School-Level Characteristics

These variables provide information about the student's school and were collected during the Base Year. SCHSAMP classifies the school into one of nine sampling strata: (0) regular public, (1) alternative public, (2) Cuban Hispanic public, (3) other Hispanic public, (4) (not used), (5) regular Catholic, (6) Black Catholic, (7) Cuban Hispanic Catholic, (8) elite non-Catholic private, and (9) non-elite, non-Catholic private. SCHURB classifies the student's school as (1) urban, (2) suburban, or (3) rural. SCHREGN indicates in which of the nine U.S. Census divisions the school is located. (See also Section 7.9 below.)

7.5 Composite Variables

Composite variables are constructed using responses from two or more questionnaire items. The construction of each composite variable is described in detail in Chapter 6. SEX and RACE, not ordinarily considered composite variables, are placed here because they were composed from data taken from various documents collected during the two waves of the study. By using data from several sources it was possible to establish the sex of every student in the sample. The RACE variable, as described in Chapter 6, is actually a combination of responses to race and origin/descent questions. It distinguishes the following race/ethnicity categories: (1) Hispanic, (2) American Indian, (3) Asian, (4) Black, (5) White, and (6) Other. Students were assigned to these categories hierarchically in the sequence specified. Thus, for example, students who had classified themselves as both Black and Hispanic were coded as Hispanic on the composite variable.

BYTEST and FUTEST (the latter available only for the sophomore cohort) are averages of the Base Year and First Follow-Up reading, vocabulary, and mathematics standardized scores.[1] (See Chapter 6 for details.) BYTESTQ and FUTESTQ (the latter for sophomores) indicate whether the student's BYTEST or FUTEST score falls in the lowest, second, third, or highest quartile of the distribution for the population (weighted by BYTESTWT or FUTESTWT, as appropriate).

[1] Throughout this section, "standardized score" means a score that has been adjusted so that the weighted distribution of scores has a mean of 50 and a standard deviation of 10.

The socioeconomic status composites consist of two SES scores--BYSES and FUSES--for the sophomore cohort and one score--BYSES--for the senior cohort.

BYSES was copied from the Base Year public use file for both cohorts. FUSES was constructed from First Follow-Up data for the sophomore cohort, using Base Year procedures. (It was not possible to construct a First Follow-Up SES score for the senior cohort because too few of the components were repeated in the First Follow-Up senior questionnaire. Sophomores who did not complete a basic sophomore questionnaire (i.e., dropouts) are likewise missing First Follow-Up SES scores.)

The construction of the SES composite scores is described in detail in Chapter 6. The procedures used in both the Base Year and the First Follow-Up adhered as closely as possible to those used in the NLS-72, in order to retain comparability among all waves of the longitudinal studies. The composite is based on five components: (1) father's occupation, (2) father's education, (3) mother's education, (4) family income, and (5) material possessions in the household, and is the simple average of the non-missing components after each component score has been standardized.

An additional composite variable related to socioeconomic status, BYSESQ or FUSESQ, was calculated to indicate in which quartile of the population a student's composite SES score falls. For the First Follow-Up data set, new quartiles were computed for the BYSES scores using a revised procedure. The new procedure calculated quartile cutting points for the weighted population of SES scores (using BYWT or FUWT, as appropriate) rather than establishing quartile cutting points on the assumption of a normal distribution of scores as was done in the Base Year.

Five psychological scales were constructed from various attitude items included in the First Follow-Up questionnaires. These scales are intended to measure self-concept (FECONCPT and FYCONCPT), locus-of-control (FELOCUS and FYLOCUS), work orientation (FEWORK and FYWORK), family orientation (FEFAMILY and FYFAMILY), and community orientation (FECOMMUN and FYCOMMUN). Each composite scale is the average of the standardized scores of the questionnaire items of which it is composed. For a list of the component items and the construction procedures, see Chapter 6.

7.6 Replicate Codes and Sampling Weights

The First Follow-Up data files are designed to be used as weighted data sets in all kinds of analysis. The complex sample design of both the Base Year and First Follow-Up studies virtually ensures inaccurate results if the data is analyzed on an unweighted basis. Clustering, multistage selection, and disproportionate sampling all contribute potential bias and various degrees of unreliability, which can be avoided by using the weights provided to analyze specific subsets of the sample. The weights included on the file and the data for which they are appropriate are displayed in Table 3.4-1 and 3.4-2.

Tests of statistical significance on these data should be carried out on a weighted basis and should take account of the design effect due to the complex sample design and weighting scheme. Exact standard errors and design effects (DEFF factors) and root design effects (DEFT factors) for proportions estimated on 30 variables and for averages on 7 test scores are provided in Section 3.6 above. This section also contains guidelines on how to use these factors to calculate approximate standard errors that take into account the complex sample design.

The standard errors and design effects reported in 3.6 were calculated using the method of balanced repeated replication (BRR). Users who have access to a BRR program can calculate exact standard errors and design effects for variables not included in 3.6 using the replicate codes (REPCODE) included on the data file. These codes indicate the computing stratum (first 2 digits) and the half-sample (last digit, coded 1 or 2) to which each student in the sample belongs. (The BRR program used to calculate these sampling errors is available upon request from NCES.)

7.7 Base Year Student Questionnaire Data

The Base Year senior questionnaire contained 121 questions; the Base Year sophomore questionnaire, 114 questions. Many questions were common to both instruments. The responses of each cohort to these questions are reproduced on the First Follow-Up senior and sophomore data files just as they appeared in the Base Year data files, but only for students who were selected for the First Follow-Up. Students selected for the First Follow-Up who did not participate in the Base Year survey will, of course, have no Base Year student questionnaire data. For ease of reference to the Base Year data file, the Base Year data on the First Follow-Up sophomore file have been placed in tape positions 212 to 1,199, with the result that the First Follow-Up tape position for any given variable is exactly 200 positions higher on the First Follow-Up tape than on the Base Year tape.

At the beginning of the student questionnaire data file (tape positions 212 through 215 on the sophomore file) are four data indicators that show (1) whether data are available (code=1) or not available (code=0) on non-English language usage (LANGDATA); (2) whether the student chose to fill out the Spanish language version of the Base Year student questionnaire (SPANLANG); (3) whether Base Year test data is included on the file for this student (TESTDATA); and (4) the grade level (sophomore=1, senior=2) of the student during the Base Year (GRADE).

Tape positions 233 through 831 contain Base Year questionnaire data. Questions appear in the order of the Base Year senior questionnaire and use the SPSS variable names (mnemonics) established during the Base Year. This means that the sophomore question numbers that appear in the first column are sometimes out of order. Users will also note that because the sophomore and senior Base Year questionnaires differ slightly from each other, and because the variable name was taken from the senior version, there is sometimes a seeming lack of correspondence between the sophomore question number that appears in the first column of the record layout and the variable name that appears in the second column. This difference between the two questionnaires also accounts for gaps in the sophomore and senior records. Gaps occur in the sophomore record where a senior question has no corresponding sophomore question. Similarly, gaps occur in the senior record where a sophomore has no corresponding senior question. These anomolies had to be allowed if two important goals of data file organization were to be met: (1) assign the same variable name to questions that were common to both questionnaires, and (2) put variables in the same relative positions on both the sophomore and senior records.

Tape positions 838 through 857 contain five psychological composites constructed during the Base Year. (See Information for Users, Base Year (1980) Data, NORC, 1980, the Base Year user's manual, for a description of how these were constructed.)

Tape positions 858 through 1,199 contain Base Year test score data.

7.8 First Follow-Up Student Questionnaire and Test Score Data (1980 Sophomore Cohort)

The First Follow-Up student questionnaire and test score data are organized as follows: tape positions 1,226-1,798 contain data from the in-school sophomore cohort questionnaire; tape positions 1,800-2,477 contain data from the "not currently in school" (dropout) questionnaire; tape positions 2,479-2,516 contain data from the transfer student supplement; tape positions 2,518-2,925 contain data from the early graduate supplement; tape positions 2,927-3,052 contain First Follow-Up test score data. At the beginning of each section of questionnaire data is a flag (FYMETHOD, FDMETHOD, FTMETHOD, or FGMETHOD), which indicates the method of administration used for that questionnaire or supplement: in school (code = 0); group session outside of school (code = 1); in person (code = 2); by telephone (code = 3); or by mail (code = 4).

Many of the questions on the drop out questionnaire are identical to those on the in-school questionnaire. Where this is the case, this data has been copied from the dropout questionnaire tape position of a student's record to the corresponding in-school questionnaire tape position on the student's record. These items are identified on the Record Layout for the in-school questionnaire by an asterisk (*) in front of the variable name and a cross-reference to the corresponding variable name and tape position on the dropout questionnaire. This is intended to facilitate analysis of those items that are common to the in-school and dropout questionnaires. (The common items can be analyzed using only the SPSS control cards for the in-school questionnaires.)

7.9 Selected Base Year and First Follow-Up School Data

Selected Base Year and First Follow-Up school questionnaire data are attached to the student record as contextual data about the school environment. These data are in tape positions 3,053 through 3,115 and include: number of students in the 10th and 12th grades; specialization of the school, if any; percent of the students and faculty who are black and Hispanic; percent of 1978-79 class now in regular college; percent of students who dropped out; participation in bilingual and other special programs such as Title I and Title VII; and legal ownership of the school.

7.10 Activity State Pointers

The final section of the senior cohort data record contains 42 pointers that indicate the location of education and employment activity data for the time period covered by the study. Similar pointers have not been created for the sophomore cohort, but interested users may contact NCES for a program to generate them.

7.11 Guide to the Codebook

The codebook provides a comprehensive description of the student data file. For each variable on the tape the codebook provides the following information, referenced in Figure 7.11 by the number in parentheses following each item:

--a question number for cross-reference to the questionnaire (1)

--the tape position of the variable (2)

--the variable format (3)

--the SPSS (or SAS) variable name (4)

--the SPSS (or SAS) variable label (5)

     (Refer to Question 128A.)

Question number (Item 1 in Figure 7.11): For variables taken directly from questionnaires, this is the question number in the original document. Composite variables and other items such as flags have been assigned question numbers that serve to indicate the type or source of the variable.

Tape position (Item 2 in Figure 7.11): This item gives the starting and ending tape position for each variable on the data tape.

Variable format. (Item 3 in Figure 7.11): This item indicates the type of variable, its width, and the number of decimal points, if any.

SPSS (SAS) variable name (Item 4 in Figure 7.11): Each variable on the data tape is identified by a unique SPSS (SAS) variable name. Data indicators (such as flags and status codes) and composite variables are given mnemonics that help identify them, for example, SCHLID for "school identification code" and BYSES for "Base Year socioeconomic status composite." Student questionnaire items and school questionnaire items have names that begin with a two-character code that identifies the cohort and wave to which the item belongs, for example, FE25A. These codes and their meanings are as follows:

YB = younger cohort questionnaire, Base Year
EB = elder cohort questionnaire, Base Year
BB = both cohort questionnaires, Base Year
FY = First Follow-Up, younger cohort, student questionnaire
FD = First Follow-Up, younger cohort, dropout questionnaire
FT = First Follow-Up, younger cohort, transfer student supplemental questionnaire
FG = First Follow-Up, younger cohort, early graduate supplemental questionnaire
FE = First Follow-Up, elder cohort questionnaire
SB = school questionnaire, Base Year

For student or school questionnaire items, positions 3 through 8 of the variable name indicate the original question number and its subparts.

Two special variables begin with a three-character code:
(1) post-secondary education activity state variables begin with PSE;
(2) employment activity state variables begin with JOB. (These appear only on the senior cohort data file.)

The user should be careful always to refer to the variable by its SPSS (SAS) variable name in any computing procedures, not by its question number, which may be a mnemonic very similar to the variable name.

SPSS (SAS) variable label (Item 5 in Figure 7.11): A short variable label appears after the variable name. This label is the same as that which appears on the SPSS (SAS) data definition cards included on the tape.

Original question wording (Item 6 in Figure 7.11): For questionnaire items, this provides the exact question wording as it appeared in the original document.

Response categories (Item 7 in Figure 7.11): This item provides either the original response categories (in the case of questionnaire items) or the recoded or constructed response categories for composite variables and data indicators, such as flags. For display in the tables, continuous variables have been recoded to collapse all valid values into a single response category. This allows the codebook tables to show the frequency counts, unweighted percentages, and adjusted weighted percentages for continuous variables without printing each distinct value that the variable can take.

Response codes (Item 8 in Figure 7.11): This item provides the actual numerical codes that appear on the data tape in the tape position specified (except for continuous variables where the actual values that appear on the tape have been recoded to produce the frequency counts and percentages). Certain codes, discussed below, are reserved to indicate missing data, legitimate skip, etc.

Frequency counts (Item 9 in Figure 7.11): This item shows the unweighted frequency counts for all records that were processed, including records that have missing data codes, legitimate skips, and so forth. Note, however, that the unweighted totals in the codebook vary: 29,737 cases for variables such as ID code and participation flags; 27,118 cases for Base Year questionnaire variables; 24,938 cases for Base Year test score data; 28,119 cases for First Follow-Up variables when dropout questionnaire data is included and 25,830 cases when it cannot be included; 2,289 cases for the dropout questionnaire; 1,170 cases for the transfer student supplement; 643 cases for the early graduate supplement; 26,216 cases for First Follow-Up test score data; 29,737 cases for selected Base Year and First Follow-Up school questionnaire variables. These different bases reflect the fact that different subsets of the sampled students responded to different survey instruments.

Unweighted percentage frequencies (Item 10 in Figure 7.11): This column displays the frequency counts of item 9 as percentages. All records that were processed are included.

Weighted "valid cases" percentage frequencies (Item 11 in Figure 7.11): This column displays the weighted frequency of those cases that are "valid," that is, excluding those records that have been assigned reserved codes.

Reserved codes (Item 12 in Figure 7.11): In this dataset certain codes termed "reserved codes" have been chosen always to stand for certain situations. These codes and their interpretations are:

6 = multiple punch ...... more than one response where only one response was called for

7 = refusal .... respondent refused to answer an item, either at the time of questionnaire administration or telephone follow-up. This value is available only for questionnaire items designated as critical for analysis.

8 = missing data .... data that should be present for this respondent is missing, but respondent did not necessarily refuse to provide data

9 = legitimate skip ..... either because of responses to preceding filter questions or because of other respondent characteristics, data for this item should not be present for this respondent, that is, the data is legitimately missing

These reserved codes correspond identically to those used in the NLS-72 and in the Base Year High School and Beyond study. The codes as listed above apply to variables with single-column data fields. For variables with data fields greater than one column, the leftmost columns are filled with 9s (e.g., 96, 996, 9997).
